GOT YOUR CRAWFORD YET?

No? Now don't be a foolish virgin. Be prepared to do your best. You can't do it with the old stove nor can you do it with any other sort of a new one. There's time enough yet—but none to spare. Lay aside your prejudice just for once—you'll be happy the rest of your days.

Crawford Ranges

Make happy homes. They remove the cares and perplexities of housework, they never disobey but do exactly as they're told every time. A roast half done at dinner time or pies with undone under crusts are things unknown to the housewife who uses a Crawford.

DUE TO RAVAGES OF THE FLY.

Unfavorable Outlook for Olive Oil Crop in Mediterranean Countries.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—Ravages of the olive fly, in spite of the vigorous efforts to exterminate it, are largely responsible for a decidedly unfavorable outlook for the olive oil crop in Mediterranean countries this year, according to consular reports. It is practically certain that the crop, which will be gathered in a few weeks, will be but 45 per cent of normal. Only a fair crop is looked for from Spain, while an extremely scarce production to one third of the average yield is expected, and in Greece and Syria has also a poor crop to report.

A PROBABLE CASE OF CHOLERA.

Passenger on Steamer Royal George Quarantined at Grosse Isle.

QUEBEC, Nov. 21.—"The case is undoubtedly cholera." This was the official report made today by Dr. Adams of McGill University, to the government's immigration department, regarding the case of Peter Spencer, a passenger on steamer Royal George, which arrived here last week. Spencer and the other steerage passengers are at Gross Isle quarantine station.

RUSSIAN AUTHOR'S MEMORY HONORED.

Douma Adjourns in Respect for Count Tolstoi.

Body Not to be Buried with Rites of Orthodox Church.

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 21.—The Douma adjourned today's session in respect for Count Leo Tolstoi, who died at Astapova yesterday, though the decision to do so was reached only after a wrangle, the members of the extreme right contending that to honor the memory of the Russian reformer and novelist would be to challenge the Greek Catholic Church. It was asserted that the Douma was a state institution to which the count was especially opposed.

In proposing the adjournment the president eulogized Tolstoi, whom he described as "the pride of Russia and the glory of mankind," adding: "May the merciful God open to him the kingdom of heaven." Many societies and organizations are preparing to send deputations to the funeral.

It was decided last night that Tolstoi's body cannot be buried with the rites of the Orthodox Church. No plenary synod has been called, and telegraphic instructions have been sent to the bishops, informing them that requiems are not to be permitted.

The church in the persons of the Metropolitans Antonius of St. Petersburg, Vladimir of Moscow and Flavian of Kiev and Youfilianoff, chief procurator of the Holy Synod, reached a conclusion to leave things as they are with respect to the dead author.

The government intends, it is announced, to co-operate with the church in the enforcement of its decision, although both the emperor and Premier Stolypin have indicated their desire that the great Russian be buried with the Russian tyre, the headdress customary on such occasions.

Repeatedly advances have been made which would permit the lifting of the ban of excommunication decreed to Tolstoi in 1901. The Metropolitan Antonius himself sent a telegram urging Tolstoi to make his peace with the church, and representatives of the church were sent to Astapova for the purpose of bringing the count back into the fold. Messages from Optina, Shamardine and Astapova, however, stated that until the end Tolstoi was held a prisoner by the enemies of the church, no monk, priest or bishops having been permitted to see him. Nor did they receive the slightest retraction from Tolstoi in the position which he assumed toward the church some years ago.

It is pointed out that Tolstoi was the subject of the milder form of penalty, that he was not anathematized, and that a priest on his own conscience could officiate at a requiem such as was held yesterday under the auspices of the council of the empire on the initiative of Michael Stakovisch, Marshal of Nobility.

A strict censorship is being exercised by the Russian press in the publication of news concerning Tolstoi's death.

NO PUBLIC DEMONSTRATION.

Tolstoi's Wishes Concerning His Burial to be Carried Out.

ASTAPOVA, Nov. 21.—A special train bearing the body of Count Leo Tolstoi to Yasnaya Poliana, the family estate in the government of Tula, left here at 3:05 o'clock this afternoon. The countess and the other members of the family and intimates who were here when the author died, yesterday, accompanied the body, and the newspaper correspondents were also accommodated, on the train. A halt for the night will be made at the railway junction at Gorbatchevo and the train is due at Zaseika, the station near Yasnaya Poliana, early tomorrow forenoon. The distance from the depot to the Tolstoi home is not great and the casket, according to Russian custom, probably will be borne to the house on the shoulders of the mourners.

Since early morning the countess has sat in the station master's hut, where her husband died, with her head bowed upon the casket, and weeping. She appeared not to notice the defile of peasants admitted to the death chamber and quitted her position only when M. Gunzberg, the sculptor, came to take a death mask.

Leonid O. Pastermak, the portrait painter, sketched the scene. This was as simple as Tolstoi could have wished. The body reposed in a plain oak coffin, at the foot of which a few wreaths of fir, emblematic of immortality, had been placed. The platform of the railway station was covered with fir boughs spread by the peasants of the neighborhood. The station master has consented to the transfer of his humble home in which the count died to Yas-

SHIPPERS OCCUPY THE FIELD.

Struggle Over Advance in Freight Rates Taken Up by Commission.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—The struggle between the railroads and the shippers over the proposed sweeping advances in freight rates by the Eastern trunk lines was resumed before the Interstate Commerce Commission today, the shippers occupying the field. The hearing comes over from last month, when the railroads rested their case, in what constituted one of the most important rate battles ever fought before the commission.

The case primarily affects several thousand articles embraced in what are known as class rates, moving as an immense traffic through the official classification territory, the sweep of railroad domain that embraces New England, the Middle states and over to the Illinois-Indiana line, and north of the Ohio and Potomac rivers, but the hearing may extend to a wider scope. There are horizontal increases proposed in the tariffs on all these articles of freight urged by the railroads as necessary to enable them to secure a greater net income for dividend and improvement purposes, a need that the railroad magnates charged up to drains on the operating revenues, mainly through recent increases on their lines and legislative burdens.

The shippers attack the wholesale advances as unjust and unreasonable, and through their representatives have marshalled a mass of testimony to be presented to the commission by witnesses during the hearing, which will continue through the week. The shippers are anxious that in addition to the present proceeding the commission conduct an independent investigation to bring out facts not obtainable, except on inquiries of their own initiative. While the hearing is fixed for consideration of the Eastern lines' increase there are also increases proposed in the Illinois freight committee territory, and the Western trunk line and trans-Missouri territories.

Louis D. Brandeis of Boston, Mass., who was the attorney for Louis Glavis, the dismissed land office special agent in the Ballinger-Pinchot investigation, is the counsel for the eastern shippers.

William A. Glasgow, Jr., of Philadelphia filed a brief with the commission, comparing acts of Congress and British railroad legislation. He contended that, under the amended interstate commerce law, the burden of proof on the carrier could not be discharged by proof of increased cost of operation or apprehended increased expenditures, but that the carrier must show the rate was just and reasonable for the service rendered, just as before the act of Congress the complaining shipper was required to show the rate was unjust and unreasonable for the service rendered.

Mr. Brandeis's statement of the case of the shippers featured the session and had the close attention of the gathering.

RAIDED BY FEDERAL OFFICERS.

Burr Brothers Charged With Using Mails to Defraud.

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—Federal officers this afternoon raided the offices occupied by Burr Brothers, a corporation dealing in stocks and other securities. The raid was made on warrants charging use of the mails to defraud investors. Postoffice officials say the concern has sold to investors at par value between $40,000,000 and $50,000,000 of stock in various companies, most of which have gone out of existence or have become bankrupt.

GENERAL REYES REPORTED COMING.

Exiled Mexican Said to Be Returning Home.

Revolutionists Would Secure an Able Military Leader.

EAGLE PASS, Texas, Nov. 21.—"General Bernardo Reyes is coming." This is the whisper which has gone with telegraphic swiftness up and down the Rio Grande. If it is true, and many Mexicans assert that it is, it means that the revolutionists have at their head a man superior in military training to any other in Mexico, not even excepting President Diaz himself.

General Bernado Reyes, once a business friend of Diaz, is now said to be an exile from his country. He was sent a year ago to Paris, France, on a "military mission." Since then no word has come from him until today, when the cautious words were sent from Matamoras to Las Vacas. It was reported among the Mexicans that he had already taken passage for New York and would reach Eagle Pass within ten days.

Reyes was governor of the state of Nuevoleon, the hotbed of revolution [illegible] president, some of his admirers proposed his name for vice president. Subsequent events appeared to prove that Reyes, while avowing perfect amity and friendship for Diaz, was plotting his downfall. Then it was that the stirring events in May, 1909, occurred. Reyes was surrounded by troops and was to all intents and purposes a prisoner. He repaired to Mexico City and was sent to the foreign mission. Adherents of General Reyes openly assert that he is now footloose and claim he has a strong following in all parts of the republic.

REPORT NOT YET CONFIRMED.

Madero Believed to Have Made His Way Into the Interior.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Nov. 21.—Confirmation of the report that the Mexican consul at San Antonio, Enrique Onealas, has been advised of rioting at the town of Zacatecas, Mexico, is not possible at this hour. Efforts to locate Senor Onealas have proved futile because of a recent change in residence. The Express published a story this morning that Francisco Madero is believed to have made his way into the interior.

LOSS OF LIVES REACHES 100.

Quiet Again Restored in Zacatecas After Saturday's Rioting.

EL PASO, Texas, Nov. 21.—One hundred persons wer killed in rioting which took place at Zacatecas, in the interior of Mexico, west of Tampico, Saturday night, according to reports received here this morning. The American consul telegraphed the first news of the riots to the Mexican consul at San Antonio, stating that the town was in a state of terror and the loss of life was not less than 100. No details were given other than that a company of soldiers were ordered to fire upon a vast crowd of rioters which thronged the streets.

Zacatecas is the capital of the state of Zacatecas, in central Mexico, about 500 miles south of the United States line. News of the riots did not reach the outside world until late Sunday, although the battle took place Saturday night. It is stated quiet has now been restored by placing the city under rigid military rule. The latest reports are that the slain are still lying in the streets where they fell.

RUMORS CANNOT BE VERIFIED.

A Fight Between American and Mexicans Reported Near Del Rio.

EL PASO, Texas, Nov. 21.—An early morning despatch from Del Rio, Texas, on the Mexican border, 250 miles east of here, states that rumors are current there of a fight which is supposed to have taken place near there early last night between Americans and Mexicans. Reports that bands of Mexicans had crossed the river at different points cannot be verified. County officers and United States river guards state they have no information of trouble, but have heard rumors of an invasion and attack at different points. It is reported that riots have taken place at Alnieze, 70 miles south in Mexico, and several killed there. The report is unconfirmed at this hour.

UNREST ALONG THE BORDER.

Diaz Government Strong Enough to Repress Revolutionists.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—Related telegrams reaching the State Department from officials in Mexico mention various revolutionary disturbances at different points in that country, but all agree in one respect, and that is that the Diaz government is strong enough to repress the revolutionists. Ambassador Henry L. Lane Wilson telegraphed the department under Saturday's date that he had been informed by the Mexican government that here were revolutionary outbreaks at Puebla and at Juarez, and the government apparently had the situation well in hand. The newspaper Paix had been publishing violent and incendiary articles, the ambassador said, and probably would be suppressed.

American Consul Ellsworth of Ciudad Porfirio Diaz, crossed the Rio Grande to reach an American telegraph office yesterday, and wired the State Department that there was considerable unrest along the border, but that the situation on the American side of the line was under control. Mr. Ellsworth is co-operating with the Mexican officials in the effort to discover and thwart the attempts of military expeditions organized on the Texas side of the line to cross the border into Mexico. It is evident from the activity of American consult, near the Mexican border and other officials, that the United States government is doing everything possible to prevent violation of the neutrality law. Primarily this duty devolves upon the Department of Justice, which is acting through its marshals and sheriffs and efficient secret service agencies. The United States district attorneys are

COUNT TOLSTOI DEAD.

Expires Without Being Restored to Communion of the Church.

ASTAPOVA, Nov. 20.—Count Leo Tolstoi died this morning, after the desperate attempts of his doctors to prolong his life by the use of heart stimulants had proved unavailing.

The world-famous reformer met his final summons without being restored to the communion of the church, notwithstanding the earnest efforts made by the leaders ever since he was stricken by what proved to be, as was feared, his last illness.

The public was prepared to learn of his death, although a hope had been created within the last day or two by his sturdy resistance against the inroads of disease that he would again rally, as he had in former times when his condition appeared to be helpless.

Tolstoi suffered several serious attacks of heart failure during the night. During the early morning hours these followed each other in rapid succession, but were quickly relieved. Between the first and second attack the members of the family were admitted to the bedside.

Tolstoi's condition after each attack was what the attending physicians called "deceptively encouraging." The patient slept a little, seeming to breathe more comfortably than usual. Doctors Thichurovsky and Usoff, nevertheless, in a statement to Tolstoi's son Michel, held out but slight hope and did not hesitate to predict a quick end under ordinary mortal circumstances.

During one of the heart attacks Tolstoi was alone with his eldest daughter Tatina. He suddenly clutched her hand and drew her to him. He seemed to be choking, but was able to whisper: "Now the end has come; that is all."

Tatina was greatly frightened and tried to free herself so that she might run for the doctor, but her father would not release his grasp. She called loudly from where she sat. The physicians injected camphor which had an almost immediate effect in relieving the pressure. Tolstoi soon raised his head and then drew himself up in a sitting position. When he had recovered his breath, he said:

"There are millions of people and many sufferers in the world. Why always anxious about me?"

Count Tolstoi made a hard fight against the disease which compelled his removal from a train a few days ago to the insignificant flag station at this place. The spread of the inflammation of the lungs had been checked, but it had been necessary to resort to powerful stimulants, frequently administered, to keep the heart going. Its action has been very bad, and late last night an attack of cardiac failure, more severe than several during the day, went far toward completing the patient's exhaustion.

The countess and other members of the family, who had not before been allowed to see Count Tolstoi, were admitted to the sickroom while the patient was sleeping. The attending physicians had been careful, as far as has been possible, to exclude from his presence any person likely to cause him emotion, and for the same reason, several important communications, including that from Antonius, the Metropolitan of St. Petersburg, had not been shown to him. The condition of the Count was considered too grave to permit of his being agitated by written appeals to him to make his peace with the church.

STRUCK BY A ROYALIST.

Premier Briand Attacked at Dedication of Ferry Statue.

PARIS, Nov. 20.—Premier Briand was struck twice in the face here today and nearly felled, in the presence of thousands, by a Royalist who would have been killed on the spot but for the premier's prompt action to protect him from the infuriated crowd. The assault upon M. Briand marred imposing national ceremonies in the Tuileries Garden at the dedication of a statue erected to the memory of Jules Ferry, the French statesman.

The premier, who was walking with President Falliéres, when he was attacked, was not seriously hurt. The vast throng which had gathered in the garden immediately set upon the Royalist and only determined intervention by the Republican Guards saved him from being beaten to death.

The assault occurred at the conclusion of the exercises. President Falliéres, M Briand and the other ministers were walking toward the gateway when a man broke through the Republican Guards who lined the road, leaped to M. Briand's side, and raising his clenched fists high in the air, brought them down with full force upon the Premier's face. M. Briand reeled under the blows, but did not fall. As friends rushed up to assist him he cried: "I am all right; we must protect my assailant."

The audacity of the attack rendered the crowd momentarily speechless, but a shout of anger and cries of "Kill him!" arose quickly from all sides, as men fought to lay hands upon the assailant. He was kicked and beaten and badly injured before the Republican Guards, urged on by the premier, succeeded in rescuing him.

The man was taken before a magistrate and gave the name of Lacour. He was a member of the executive committee of the "Camelots du Roy," an organization of young Royalists, and said that he wished to strike at the republic in the person of Briand.

The "Camelots du Roy" met tonight and unanimously elected Lacour vice president of the association, in token of their sympathy and admiration for his act.

The statue of M. Ferry was erected by the public schol children of France and the colonies, 2,000,000 of whom each contributed one cent. The ceremonies while honoring M. Ferry as a statesman and upbuilder of the colonies, especially honored him as "father of the public schools of France."

A golden book, containing the names of the 2,000,000 subscribers was placed in a receptacle beneath the statue. There was a great procession of school children, and orations were delivered by Premier Briand, Maurice Faure minister of public instruction, and other noted public men.

M. Briand eulogized Ferry as a great patriot, comparable with Gambetta and Waldeck-Rousseau.

TAFT AT GUANTANAMO.

First American President to Visit the Cuban Republic.

GUANTANAMO, Cuba, Nov. 19.—President Taft, who came here from Colon this forenoon to inspect the United States naval station, was the first chief magistrate of his country who ever placed his feet on Cuban soil. The Cuban secretary of state welcomed President Taft on behalf of President Gomez, having made a trip from Havana for the express purpose of extending the insular republic's greetings. President Taft departed this afternoon for Hampton Roads.

On board the special squadron, composed of armored cruisers Tennessee and Montana, and after a pleasant voyage from Colon, where four days were spent in an inspection on the Panama Canal construction, the President arrived here at 11 o'clock. As the cruisers steamed into the bay, the Tennessee leading, with the blue flag of the President at her foremast, the guns of cruiser Newark, station ship of the naval station, boomed the regular salute of 21 guns in honor of the President.

As soon as the cruisers had dropped anchor in the bay the officers of the naval station went on board the Tennessee to pay their respects. The Cuban secretary of state was then received.

After the reception the President and members of the party went ashore and made an inspection of the rifle range and other work at the station. Their stay was brief and the cruisers weighed anchor immediately upon their return on board. They were under way at 3 o'clock this afternoon and headed eastward for the Windward Passage.

The President has changed his itinerary and will land at Hampton Roads instead of Charleston, S. C. It is expected he will arrive off Old Point Comfort next Tuesday. There he will board the Presidential yacht Mayflower, upon which he will go up the James river to Richmond, where he has accepted an invitation to address the Virginia Educational Conference. He will return to Washington on board the Mayflower, arriving Wednesday.

NOT MEANT TO DISCRIMINATE.

Navy Department Explains Why German Ports Were Omitted in Itinerary of the Fleet.

Regret is expressed by naval officers in Washington that even a small element among their German fellow sailors should feel disposed to criticise the Navy Department for failing to include the German ports in the itinerary of the Atlantic fleet, which is now visiting France and England.

It is explained at the Navy Department that there was not the slightest disposition to discriminate against German points in making up the itinerary, which, in fact, was changed to meet an emergency. The original plan was for the fleet to mak a flying visit to the Mediterranean and it was not in contemplation that the ships should go to northern Europe at all. The appearance of cholera in the Italian seaports and disturbed political conditions in other south European countries made is necessary to change the program suddenly, and the fleet was diverted to England and France.

Probably German ports would have been included in its itinerary, but for the fact that the Baltic sea is not regarded as a pleasant winter cruising ground. It is said to be part of the general plan for the disposition of the fleet to make such cruises every year, varying the details from time to time so that in due course all of the seacoast nations of Europe, including Germany, will come in for a visit.

MR. SANFORD'S STORIES.

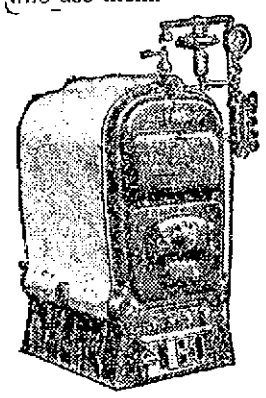

The Literary Review has the following in a recent issue: "These letters called 'Love—A Comedy,' by Mr. William Sanford, in the 'Widow,' were so well done that we can almost see 'Cynthia' getting ready for that pink wedding! The author has a keen insight into human nature; there was as much between the lines as in the lines themselves. Mr. Sanford, by the way, is giving the 'Widow' readers some clever fiction from week to week. He covers the field from comedy to tragedy, and some of his tales 'grip.' In his satire he uses the weapons of wit very skilfully."

PILES CURED IN 6 TO 14 DAYS

The Chief Difference Between Crawford Boilers

and other boilers is that they heat the houses they are rated to heat;—you don't have to get the "next larger size."

These Boilers give more heat per pound of coal than others and cost less in repairs. They are simplicity itself in operation, are guaranteed for zero weather efficiency and to save fuel, labor, worry and money to those who use them.

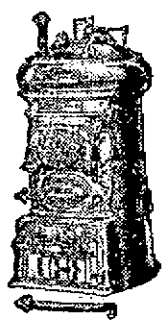

There are no packed joints, sheet iron parts or brick linings in these Boilers, and the "Heat Ribs" cast on the interiors are found in no others.

They are a gilt edge investment for those who want heat and plenty of it at the minimum of expense and care.

NEW YORK LETTE.

High Cost of Living Adds Daily to Food Expenditure.

Express Strike Aids the Parcels Post Movement—The World's Newest "Zoo"—Freak Weddings.

[Correspondence of the News.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—The part played by the high cost of living in the recent political campaign may be problematical, but figures collected here this week show that it has a very decided influence upon the weekly budgets of the great majority of persons. For example, it is shown that the people of this city are paying $500,000 a day more for food under present prices than they would if the average prices of 10 years ago still prevailed. This figures up to the tidy sum of $180,000,000 a year which the advance in all food commodities is costing the people of this city. Some of the items making up this increase are $65,000,000 a year for meats, $24,000,000 a year for butter and eggs, and $4,000,000 a year for milk with other food products contributing in proportion. These figures, of course, represent only the increased cost and not the total expenditure. That is estimated at $2,250,000 a day which makes the expenditure of the residents of New York for food alone, amount to the imposing sum of more than $800,000,000 in the course of a year. If the expenditures for drinks be included with those for food, the total outlay of New Yorkers for this one division of their living expenses is found to amount to $1,250,000,000 annually on the basis of prevailing prices. While similar conditions and similar advances of course prevail in all parts of the country, it is unquestionable that in the aggregate Greater New York feels the higher cost of living more keenly than any other single community.

One result of the great express strike that tied up business here for nearly three weeks and cut off the city's supply of fresh vegetables, fruits and many other articles, has been to give renewed strength to the proposal for a parcels post. The experience that business houses and individuals have had in being unable to obtain or to ship money, merchandise and all kinds of commodities tied up in the express warehouses here because of a private quarrel between several thousand drivers and their employers have convinced many persons of the desirability of a service not liable to such interruptions. Representatives of the Postal Progress League and the various merchants' associations, supporting amendments to the postal laws that will permit the carrying of parcels by the government, have not been slow to take advantage of the recent object lesson and have been pointing out the advantages that would come from the federal handling of some part of the business now left entirely in the hands of private agencies. As to whether the supporters of the plan can induce Congress to grant their demands at the coming session may be open to doubt, but unquestionably the movement has gained great strength here within the past few weeks on account of the strike and the annoyance it has caused to almost all residents of the city.

New York is soon to have the most remarkable "Zoo" in the world. It is being established at the Museum of Natural History in this city and is planned to contain every known variety of germ, the microbes that have been identified as the cause of various infectious diseases and others that are known to be harmless. The germs will be classified and arranged by families and will be propagated under the conditions that have been found most favorable to the growth of the different species. Members of the lay public visiting the museum will be permitted to look through the microscopes and to view in magnified form the bacilli that are the active cause of typhoid fever, tuberculosis, pneumonia and many other common diseases. The main purpose of the collection, however, is to enable scientific workers to study the structure and habits of bacteria without being compelled to obtain a supply of their own, and to furnish germs to experimenters in medical and other scientific laboratories. Such a collection never has been made before, it is asserted, and it is expected that it will prove of rare scientific value. Perhaps the word "Zoo" is a misnomer for this unique gathering, since scientists assure us that the great majority of microbes are of vegetable rather than animal origin. In that case no doubt the authorities will be equal to the occasion and will invent a new title for the assembled microorganisms.

The question as to how far New York is really a fireproof city is one that has been discussed frequently and with widely varying opinions. It is admitted of course that there are many sections occupied by old buildings among which costly fires are likely to occur at any time. In regard to the principal business sections, however, which are now almost entirely filled with buildings of modern construction including the great skyscrapers which are the city's most distinctive feature, many experts have held that New York is protected from serious damage by fire. Other authorities contend that in the face of a really serious outbreak these so-called fireproof structures would succumb and that in fact the many tall buildings of the metropolis are likely sooner or later to be the scene of one of the worst conflagrations in the history of the world. There was an opportunity for a test of these rival theories this week, when a fire started on one of the floors of the unfinished Broadway building, which is to be the home of the Hotel Astor, fueling uncompleted the structure is still without the ordinary equipment for fighting, but it has been built according to the most up-to-date standards of fireproofing. Although doors and windows have not yet been put in, so that there was every opportunity for a strong draught to encourage the flames, the fire was confined to a single room and did comparatively little damage there. This seems to indicate that so far as the most modern and best constructed of the city's buildings are concerned, there is little to be feared from attack by fire.

While getting married is considered a serious business by most persons, there have been an unusual number of weddings in this city during the past few weeks in which freaks and fads have been resorted to, presumably to relieve the ennui from which society constantly suffers and which apparently extends even to such important functions as these. One bride of a prominent family was led to the altar this week attended by three most unusual bridesmaids. These were her three pet Japanese poodles. The dogs sat about with dignity indifference during the ceremony and at the conclusion, shared in the kisses bestowed by the bride upon her most particular friends. It was noticed that the bridegroom made no attempt to kiss the maids. Another eccentric young millionairess made her collection of rare and valuable cats the guests of honor at her wedding reception, the cats being served along with the bipeds in attendance. Both of these, however, were outdone at the country wedding of a young woman belonging to the hunting set who insisted on pronouncing her "love, honor and obey" while standing in one of the stalls of her stable flanked on either side by her favorite mounts. The only thing left seems to be an aeroplane wedding and that doubtless will be next in order if a clerical gentleman can be found who is willing to trust himself up in the air for the occasion.

Longacre.

SALE OF A RARE PORCELAIN PLATE.

An interesting item of a recent sale in New York was a porcelain plate, Canton ware, from the set which Captain Samuel Shaw of Boston, the first secretary of the Order of the Cincinnati, had decorated in Canton by a Chinese artist, and which on Shaw's return home in 1785, he presented to George Washington. Some 60 pieces of the set, which were seized by the Federal forces at Arlington, the home of General Robert E. Lee, whose wife was Martha Washington's great-grandaughter, are now in the National Museum at Washington.

So far as can be learned only three pieces of this set have appeared in the public market. The one just sold brought $305.

PERSONALS.

....Attorneys for Clyde Fitch, the playwright, who died in France several months ago, have filed a schedule of his estate, all of which goes to this father. The value is placed at $212,727.

....Sarah Bernhardt gave 16 performances in Chicago and about 23,000 persons attended. The receipts are said to have been $54,000, of which Bernhardt received 80 per cent, or $43,000.

....Governor-elect John A. Dix of New York spent $1,373.32 in aid of his campaign, according to a statement of election expenses filed with the secretary of state. John J. Hopper, Independence League candidate for governor, certified that he spent $1,132.

....The resignation of Associate Justice William H. Moody of the Supreme Court of the United States, has become effective, reducing the number of members to seven. Ill health has prevented Justice Moody from performing his duties as a member of the court for more than a year.

....By a vote of 693 to 9 the First Church of Christ Scientist, New York has adopted the amendment which will make it impossible for any adherent of Mrs. Augusta E. Stetson, the deposed First Reader, to become an officer of the church, or to hold an office of any kind, either by election or appointment.

....Senator Elkins of West Virginia, who was taken to Washington recently suffering with severe illness, is reported as considerably improved. Mrs. Elkins and Miss Katherine Elkins, their daughter, who were with the Senator at his West Virginia home, are now in Washington and expect to remain there until there is a change in the Senator's condition.

....Theodore Roosevelt returned to the White House Saturday, and no member of the family of its occupant, his successor as President, was there to bid him welcome. President Taft was in Cuba and Mrs. Taft was in New York on a shopping expedition. But the colonel showed himself at home, and although he remained but a short time, he shook hands with all the clerks and attaches, most of whom were there when he left nearly two years ago.

....Henry Martyn Hoyt, counselor for the State Department, died Sunday morning of peritonitis due to a perforating ulcer of the stomach. Mr. Hoyt who was known as the "strong right arm" of Secretary of State Philander C. Knox when the Pennsylvanian was Attorney General, was taken ill in Canada while there relative to the reciprocity negotiations between the United States and that country. Since his return to Washington last Monday he had been confined to his home, and physicians called into consultation with the family doctor considered the case extremely serious from the beginning.

Your Doctor

Knows which is the best laxative for you—ask him.

He'll tell you there's nothing else quite so good as castor oil—and he's right. Yet how few people care to take this most efficacious of all laxatives in the old fashioned way.

There's a new form—Castor-Lax—castor oil with magnesia, in pure white powder form—that is not only effective, but is actually tasteless; indeed, you'd never suspect you were taking oil if you didn't know. Any druggist has Castor-Lax or will gladly get it for you.

ONLY ONE

The Record in Newport Is a Unique One.

If the reader has a "bad back" or any kidney ill and is looking for relief and cure, better depend on the only remedy endorsed by people you know. Doan's Kidney Pills relieve quickly—cure permanently.—Newport citizens testify to this. Here is a case of it:

..P. S. Bosworth, 35 Spring St., Newport, R. I., says: "My experience with Doan's Kidney Pills occurred two or three years ago. At that time my kidneys were very weak and resulting from this was an almost constant pain in my back. The kidney secretions were also irregular in passage and added greatly to my annoyance. Hearing Doan's Kidney Pills highly recommended, I was led to procure a supply at Wright & Hay's Drug Store and I can say that the results of their use were very satisfactory. Should I ever have need of a kidney remedy again, I would at once get Doan's Kidney Pills, knowing that good results would follow their use. Several weeks ago I gave this remedy to a friend who was suffering from kidney complaint and its use proved exceedingly beneficial."

..For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

THE TURKEYS' CONUNDRUM.

[Aloysius Coll.]

I wonder why the farmer man
Has grown so good to me?
He picked his finest garden patch
And in it turned me free—
A little field that snuggled close
Beside the old gray barn,
So bulging full the barley leaks,
And grains of wheat and corn.

It used to be, at feeding time,
I'd have to dodge around,
And make a supper of the oats
That spilled upon the ground;
But now the farmer gorges me
Three times a day with mash,
And guards me while I gobble down
His turkey succotash.

And mindful of my adipose,
To help me with a boost,
He leaned a ladder up the tree
Where I am wont to roost;
And if his dog but barks at night,
Or startled guineas cry,
He tumbles out of bed to see
If I am safe and high.

Today I heard the farmer brag
About me to his wife,
The while he whetted on a stone
His old brown carving-knife.
He said no gobbler ever grew
So big and plump and fat
As I had grown—I wonder why
The farmer mentioned that?

He picked his broadax up, and ran
His thumb along the steel,
And oiled his old grindstone, and worked
The pedal with his heel;
And all the while he hummed a tune
Of stuffing, pumpkin-pie,
Of white meat and cranberry sauce,
And squash—I wonder why?

And while he sang I strutted near Enough to hear and see
The farmer and his wife were full
Of interest in me.
And so I hang my wattle low,
And plume and strut around,
And purple in the face, I lock
My wings upon the ground.

How proud I am that all the fuss
And talk about the place
Is all for me, my bulging breast
And plumes and purple face!
I wonder what this sudden gale
Of rosy luck can be
That gives the farmer and his wife
Such interest in me?

COUNT TOLSTOI.

Count Tolstoi was possibly the most remarkable man in the world. Competent literary critics agree that he was the greatest novelist of the present day, and if not the greatest who ever lived certainly one of the very greatest. In addition to this he was a social reformer. He was an advanced liberal, reared in Russia. He was a man of intense religious earnestness and devoted the greater part of his life to efforts to revive the spirit of primitive Christianity. An army officer in the Crimean war, he became the opponent of all force, his career in this respect somewhat resembling that of William Penn. His intellectuality made him a power in the world which even the Russian government did not quite dare to restrain. The Russian church excommunicated and anathematized him for his religious liberalism, but frank as he was in denouncing the character of the Russian government, the Czar and his ministers did not quite dare to lay their hands upon him.

His soul burned with indignation at injustice—of man to woman, of kings to people, of the rich to the poor. He had intense sympathy with the oppressed peasantry, and while he wore their clothes and ate their food he struggled constantly to secure better conditions for them. He treated them, and tried to make his countrymen treat them, as human beings. Their wrongs he felt bitterly, and at any risk to himself he uttered those protests for them which they did not dare and had not the ability to utter for themselves. His publisher not long ago was sent to prison for issuing one of his books, but the government which could penalize the obscure publisher did not dare make itself offensive to the civilized world by punishing the author known and revered everywhere, though he insisted that it was he and not the publisher who should be sent to prison if any one were to be punished for it.

There was a good deal about Tolstoi which seems to conventional people to partake of fanaticism, but he had the intellect of a genius and the soul of a prophet.

DIVIDED OVER THE SENATORSHIP.

The Republican party in this state does not seem able to control the situation as regards a candidate to succeed United States Senator Nelson W. Aldrich. At first the leaders did not seem to dare to express a preference, because Senator Aldrich was said to have selected Mr. Henry F. Lippitt, while some had other men in view. The first of those opposition candidates was Colonel Samuel P. Colt, but after a time he decided that his business interests would not permit him to accept a nomination and announced that he was not to be considered. Then the party leaders, apparently thinking there would be no further trouble, declared that there was no other candidate in the field and Mr. Lippitt would be elected without opposition.

In this, however, they reckoned without appreciating the extent of the opposition to their candidate, for it was but a few days before another formidable figure loomed on the horizon. In the person of Colonel Colt's brother, Judge LeBaron B. Colt. His strength at once became evident and the party leaders recognized that there was trouble ahead for them again. At this juncture it was thought best that Mr. Lippitt, who had thus far been silent regarding his candidacy, should acknowledge that he was in the field, and accordingly he did so, stating that he would accept the position if elected. The opposition was equally alert and almost at the same time Judge Colt made a statement declaring his willingness to accept the election if it should come to him. This made the issue clear and plain, left the party with two candidates on its hands and put the leaders in a quandary as to the best method of procedure in order to control the situation.

It was decided that it would be best to put the matter to a test so far as the party leaders were concerned and it was determined to ascertain how the members of the state central committee stood on the issue. This has now been done, and to the surprise of the Lippitt supporters in that body the resolution enforsing him was passed by only about a two-thirds vote, whereas these leaders had supposed it would be practically unanimous. This leaves the party split over the nomination, for if the members of the state central committee are divided to such an extent it is evident that the rank and file will not be agreed on the matter. The supporters of Judge Colt are not slow to perceive this and are taking strong hope from this vote in the state body, seeing in it an indication that the popular revolt against the selection by Senator Aldrich of his successor and a demand for some other candidate, which they have claimed exists, is real and not fancied.

The present prospect in view of the conditions is that there will be something of a repetition of the struggle experienced four years ago when Senator Wetmore was re-elected after a long deadlock. Finally broken by the withdrawal of Colonel Colt, it is still further indicated that the Republicans in this state are without a boss who can control the votes of the party, and that there is no man who can dictate the choice of candidates. Senator Aldrich evidently cannot, for there is a revolt against his selection; the officials of the state central committee cannot, as they could control only about two thirds of the members of that body, and if they have no more power than that it is evident that they cannot govern the party as a whole, or the legislature which will have the duty of deciding this issue and electing a successor to Senator Aldrich. That duty will not be performed until January, and in the meantime this question of the choice of a United States Senator promises to be in an unsettled condition, with the party badly split over it.

WHICH MR. WOOD WAS RIGHT?

The controversy between the carded wool and the combed wool manufacturers, or technically between the manufacturers of woolens and the manufacturers of worsteds, raged while the present tariff was pending in Congress and has continued since the enactment of the law. The carded wool men desired an ad valorem duty on wool, so that the rate would be the same on wools of all values. The worsted men succeeded in retaining the specific duties, which amount to preposterous ad valorem rates on wools used by the carded manufacturers, which are dirty and shrink a great deal in the process of scouring.

During this controversy the carded wool men produced the remarks of Mr. Wood, now head of the American Woolen Company, addressed to the ways and means committee in December, 1896. In spite of that re-publication, however, Mr. Wood had the self-possession, to use a courteous phrase, to make a speech before the Algonquin Club in Boston which presents several singular contrasts to his earlier address.

Mr. Wood told the Algonquin Club that before the McKinley law not an important woolen mill had been established in Massachusetts in 40 years and the industry was immediately thereafter prostrated by the Wilson tariff. It happens, however, that when the American Woolen Company was marketing its stock it circulated a report on its condition which explained that the Washington Mills, Mr. Wood's own company, and far the largest concern in the combination, was established in the first Cleveland administration and had been extraordinarily successful, and that the woolen industry had reached a point at which it was not dependent on the tariff.

To Mr. Dingley's committee 14 years ago Mr. Wood urged ad valorem duties on wools, and opposed the excessive demand of the sheep owners for protection, on the ground that it involved unreasonable and oppressive taxation of people who wear woolen garments. He said he preferred the Wilson tariff to such a tariff as the sheep men were demanding and which they secured. Now he is in favor of specific duties, the wool duties are trifling and the Wilson tariff was ruinous. The difference appears to be that the American Woolen Company, or the woolen trust, has more interest in the worsted than in the woolen side of the market.

The Democrats, who will make up a majority of the next national House of Representatives, have a serious problem on their hands. Caleb Powers, who is a Republican representative-elect from Kentucky, has served a sentence in the penitentiary for complicity in the murder of Governor Goebel and was pardoned. For this reason it was proposed to refuse to allow him to take his seat, but a difficulty arises in the case of James M. Curley, a Democratic Congressman-elect from Massachusetts, who has also been in the penitentiary. Neither Powers nor Curley served sentences which deprive them of citizenship, and they are both in the same category. The Democrats cannot consistently refuse Powers and allow Curley to take his seat.

The naval authorities are not sure that they desire another attempt to raise the Yankee, now submerged at the entrance to New Bedford harbor. It is a question whether the vessel will warrant the expense of raising her and putting her back in condition. The Navy Department spent thousands of dollars in lifting the Nero from the rocks of Brenton's reef, bringing her into Newport and taking her to the New York navy yard, where she has been for months awaiting an appropriation for repairing the damage. The only thing gained by the experiment of raising and saving the vessel is the knowledge that compressed air can be used where other methods of salvage fail.

The Democrats believe they see a chance for popular favor in the efforts of Postmaster General Hitchcock to bring about penny postage. With the control of the House of Representatives they will have the opportunity to enact laws making this reform possible, but they must have the concurrence of the Republican Senate and the approval of a Republican President to render effective any action which they may take in the matter, so that neither party can have all the credit for the lower postal rate. The people will not care who makes the change, if it can be accomplished.

Richard Croker comes back from Ireland to spend the winter in Florida and allows himself to be interviewed by newspaper men. He says he does not think a Republican tariff is responsible for the high cost of living, but that the people have more today of everything which makes for comfort, and must pay for it. This, in a large measure, is the real source of the high cost of living—the people live higher and must pay for it.

Governor-elect Foss of Massachusetts makes his demand upon Senator Lodge, to withdraw from the field for re-election, "in the name of the majority of the sovereign people of Massachusetts," claiming that the re-election of Mr. Lodge would be a "repudiation of the great victory of the people at the late election." At last accounts Senator Lodge had not announced his withdrawal.

There is evidently a growing feeling in Mexico that President Diaz has been too long at the head of the government and that the time has come for a change. Diaz has been president since 1877 and several times before had headed revolts against the government. It is quite possible that a revolution will end his career.

Fall River during the past week raised $46,000 for a dormitory building for the Young Men's Christian Association. The campaign was started with the purpose of securing $50,000, and it is believed that this amount will be obtained before Thanksgiving.

Illustrating the importance of a single vote, the report comes from Buffalo that in a district casting 41,000 ballots the successful candidate has been declared elected by the returning board by a majority of one.

The Postoffice Department has issued a warning to senders of Christmas gifts, to "mail your gifts ahead of the rush." It is six weeks yet to Christmas, but it is well to be prepared.

In Lloyd W. Bowers and Henry M. Hoyt President Taft has lost two able and conscientious assistants. They were both men who worked zealously for the people.

All the fuss at New Haven Saturday was for nothing to nothing!

THE BONES OF HENRY VI.

The supposed tomb of King Henry VI (murdered in the Tower of London 1471) has just been opened in St. George's Chapel, Windsor, and portions of a skeleton were found. The bones were in a box a few feet beneath the pavement, under an arch on the south side of the altar. They were apparently the bones of a man. After examination by a physician and several authorities, including the provost of Eton (which was founded by Henry VI) and the provost of King's College, Cambridge, and castle officials, the skeleton was re-buried in the presence of clergy and the vault closed. It is understood that a report is to be made to the King.

Tighe and Davis, in their work "Annals of Windsor," say: "In 1484 Richard III caused the body of Henry VI to be removed from Chertsey Abbey and to be buried at Windsor, where it was solemnly reinterred on August 12 in St. George's Chapel, under the uppermost arch on the south side of the altar.

LARGE FAMILIES.

A woman who is the oldest of 11 children, of whom the "baby" is the father of a family, has a collection of newspaper clippings pertaining to large families in which her mother, nearly 83 years old, is much interested. Referring to the latest addition to the collection the woman writes to her mother: "The Desautels, with their 16, and the families in the Dr. McCann class, with 14 must retire before Jane Morris, whose picture I send you. She is 86 years old, celebrated her golden wedding 26 years ago and has been a widow 20 years. She had 15 children, of whom all but two married. Mrs. Morris has 138 grandchildren, 326 great-grandchildren and 49 great-great-grandchildren. Nine of her children had 10 or more children. One of them—Hannah Lakes—has 16, and 76 grandchildren."

PORTSMOUTH.

[Regular correspondence of the News.]

Rev. John Wadsworth of the Methodist Episcopal Church will preach the sermon at the Thanksgiving eve service at St. Paul's Church.

The dance to be given by Colonel William Barton Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, is under the supervision of Mrs. Albert C. Hall.

A well attended cottage meeting was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Almy on Glen street by members of the Friends' Church, the pastor, Rev. James M. Estes, in charge.

Mr. Albert S. Welker has had an ill turn, necessitating the services of a physician.

Rev. and Mrs. David C. Loucks will go to North Dighton Wednesday, to be guests over Thanksgiving of the former's brother, Rev. Mr. Loucks, and family.

There has been a debt of about $150, including interest, on the Methodist Episcopal Church, incurred for repairs some 12 or 15 years ago, and recently it was decided to make a determined effort to raise the money. The Sunday School children were enlisted in the work and Bibles promised to the two securing the most funds. Sufficient money was raised and Sunday it was announced that $17.50 had been secured by the Sunday School children and more than enough given to the minister, Rev. John Wadsworth, to complete the amount. Miss Minnie Dennis and Miss Edna D. Brayton secured the largest sums.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sisson of Fall River were guests Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Perry G. Randall.

The Young People's Auxiliary of St. Paul's Church met last week with Miss Alice W. Anthony and had a large attendance.

Williams College Balloonists Make Landing near Thornton

Conduct of Officers of L'Union St. Jean Baptiste—Tag Day in Woonsocket.

Four students of Williams College, in charge of Leo Stevens, a veteran aeronaut, effected a landing Saturday afternoon near Thornton, after a spectacular flight in balloon Cleveland from North Adams, Mass. The four students were H. Percy Scharman of London, England; Robert L. Starrett, New York; Kenneth T. Price, Chicago, and George G. Ernst, New York. The start was made from North Adams at 10:40 o'clock in the morning, and in the three and one half hours of the flight of the balloon traveled 225 miles before coming to earth. Scharman was severely injured by being thrown from the big basket when it was first dashed against the earth. He sustained a cut on the scalp and contusions on the face which bled freely. In addition, he had a sprain of the muscles of the back. Starrett had a bad cut on the nose, and Ernst and Price were severely shaken up and wrenched. Stevens sprained his left ankle and left shoulder. The flight was the first ever made by a college aeronautical society. The Williams Aeronautical Society, organized October 14, with a membership of 110 students, stood sponsor for the ascension. Mr. Scharman is president of the society and Mr. Starrett secretary. All the students in the party are Seniors except Ernst, who is a Freshman.

The conduct in office of J. Adelard Caron and Philippe Boucher of Woonsocket, as secretary and treasurer, respectively, of L'Union St. Jean-Baptiste d'Amerique, is criticised severely in a report by the insurance commissioners of Massachusetts and New York. The examiners charge that Boucher had too much power in signing of contracts and did not exercise sufficient care in seeing that the funds received by the secretary were turned over to him. As to Caron the examiners point to the various headings in the report in showing how he treated his trust. The statement issued was a supplementary and more complete report of the financial affairs of the society than the first, published a week or two ago, which resulted in the organization's affairs being placed in the hands of the court. It makes clear several features of the controversy which has rent the society into bitterly opposed factions lately. According to the report, the resignation of Supreme Secretary J. Adelard Caron was not voluntary. His removal was demanded by the commissioners as one of the conditions with which the society must comply, if it would continue to do business in these two states.

Tag day in Woonsocket Saturday for the benefit of the Tuberculosis Society, netted a total of $2,432.07. Promised contributions will raise the amount to a sum considerably in excess of $2,500. There were 10,041 pieces of money turned in by the collectors, who swarmed through the city, Saturday, soliciting funds to carry on the district nursing and anti-tuberculosis work. The checks given totaled $99.25, with an order for $50 more. There was $318 in bills, ranging from $20 to $1 bills. One silver dollar, 270 halves, 1,561 quarters, 6,349 dimes, 13,041 nickels and 18,112 pennies were included. There were 107 mutilated coins and foreign coins, including a Greek coin and a counterfeit. More than 35,000 tags were sold, and the average price paid per tag was 7 cents.

Rhode Island mill men were elected to many of the important offices in the National Association of Woolen and Worsted Overseers at the twenty-eighth annual meeting of the organization, in Boston. President F. P. Gallagher of Woonsocket was re-elected unanimously for another term and returned thanks to the organization for the mark of confidence in his administration of the association's affairs. Joseph Dolan, also of Woonsocket, was chosen second vice president to succeed Louis M. Allison of Worcester, Mass., who retired from office. R. J. Hill of Harrisville was elected third vice president, to fill the vacancy caused by the promotion of Mr. Dolan to the second vice presidency. C. M. Hurst and Louis Marmack of Providence were re-elected trustees for the ensuing term without opposition. James Wilson was elected to the third trusteeship, succeeding James McDowell of Providence, who retired.

Definite plans have been made by the Technical High School of Providence to secure funds to be used in paying off the debt on their athletic field. It is desired to raise $2,000 by June 22, 1911, and in order to do this monthly pledges from the teachers have been asked, contributions from former members of the school sought, subscriptions cards authorizing the pupils to collect money outside the school issued and five cent weekly contributions from the pupils will be made. The total amount which had been paid by June of this year was $450, and $4,500 is still due. The total receipts to date amount to $447.56. Of this sum $44.50 was paid by the teachers on pledges, $19.50 by alumni, $126.13 was collected by pupils on subscription cards, and the rest, $255.43, was received from the weekly contributions of the pupils in the school.

The new parish house of St. Peter's Church, Narragansett, which has been under construction for nearly a year, is now practically completed and Wednesday afternoon and evening will be open for public inspection. It is an attractive building, finely equipped and will fill a long felt want at the Pier.

Warm endorsement of the work of the Church House, Providence, and a liberal number of generous pledges of financial assistance were features of the third annual public meeting of that institution Sunday afternoon. A gift of $1,000 was announced from Miss E. C. McVickar, who made the donation as a memorial to her brother, Bishop William N. McVickar, who was president of the Church House corporation. Gifts of similar amounts were made by Francis W. Carpenter and Nathan Barton treasurer of the institution. The managers expect to announce other pledges of equally generous size, besides a large number of smaller gifts, within a few days.

DEVICE FOR LESSENING THE ROLLING OF SHIPS.

Emperor William, while attending the annual meeting of German marine architects at Berlin, congratulated Director Frahm of a Hamburg shipbuilding firm on his invention to prevent ships from rolling. He expressed the hope that the new device would be introduced in all ships.

Herr Frahm read a paper before the society, describing his invention and illustrating with a model its proposed operation. The apparatus consists of U-shaped tanks extending through the hold of the vessel from port to starboard. These admit water which rises and falls as the ships rolls, the effect being to overcome the rhythmical movement of the vessel.

The tanks have been tested on two steamers plying between German ports and Buenos Ayres. These steamers in rolling showed a list of 11 degrees on either side before being equipped with the tanks. With the latter in use the list was reduced to two degrees. The passengers found that the invention added to their comfort by standing the ships.

THE WEATHER.

BOSTON, Nov. 21, 8 A. M.—Forecast for Boston and vicinity—Fair and somewhat warmer tonight and Tuesday; light to moderate southerly to southwesterly winds.

WEATHER CONDITIONS.

Scattered snow flurries or light rains have occurred during the past 24 hours in the western Lake region, and moderate rains on the northern Pacific slope. The weather continues cloudy in most northern sections of the country, but there is much clear weather in southern and southwestern parts of the country. A mild barometeric depression is central this morning in the upper Lake region. Another depression of considerable intensity is central of the coast of New Brunswick and another appears in the extreme northwest. An extensive ridge of pressure, somewhat above the normal, covers all of the Atlantic coast and Gulf states, extending thence northwestward into Nevada. The temperature in eastern districts is generally not far from normal. In New York at 8 a. m. it was 34, Washington 26, Jacksonville 52, St. Louis 38, Chicago 36, Des Moines 24, St. Paul 22, Kansas City 38, Denver 40, San Diego 48, San Francisco 52 and Portland, Oregon 54.

MANY PAPERS FILED

Two for Aldermen and Three for the School Committee.

Full Ticket for Council from the Third Ward and Eleven from the Fourth.

When the city clerk's office closed Saturday night there was a great deal still to be done in the way of filing papers to have full tickets for the city election, and the time for filing expiring Wednesday night. There were two in for School Committee, three for aldermen, and 23 for councilmen, of which the Second ward furnished 13. This it will be seen left many vacant places, even if only one candidate is counted. There must be, to fill vacancies, one mayor, four School Committeemen, five aldermen and 66 councilmen, there being one vacancy for one-year term in the Fourth ward.

This morning things were lively. Two School Committee, two aldermen, 13 councilmen from the Third, all the old ticket, and eleven in the Fourth, eight old and three new ones, with one new man from the Second ward, came in. This makes a material addition to the list of names on file and gives the force engaged in checking off signatures something to do. The names added this morning are as follows:

Aldermen—Alderman William Shepley, Second ward; Alderman Jeremiah P. Mahoney, Third ward.

School Committee—Christopher F. Barker, William MacLeod, 10 Rhode Island avenue.

Representative Council, Ward 2—Harry Rathkamp, 61 Callender avenue.

Ward 3—William Andrews, Jr., Henry Bull, Jr., John C. Burke, J. Henry Cremin, Henry Ecroyd, Alexander J. Fludder, William B. Franklin Frederick P. Garrettson, Simon Koschay, Frederick P. Lee, John C. Seabury, Jeremiah K. Sullivan.

A few more papers came in this afternoon, including Daniel E. Doherty, 185 Spring street, for School Committee; Frank W. Pearson, 8 Appleby street, formerly in the Council, for councilman from the First ward, and part of the papers for Clark Burdick, 41 Pavel avenue, for mayor. Not enough names have been filed to say that Mr. Burdick is nominated, but enough to show that he will be when a few more come in.

Allen C. Griffith, nominated for voting district clerk in the Second precinct, Third district, Second ward, by the Democratic caucus Friday, has declined. Apparently Mr. Griffith's name was used because it was known he was to be a candidate. The idea was not to nominate a Democratic candidate in a Republican precinct, but if he was to be the candidate at the Republican caucus the caucus officials thought they would do something and so nominated him in advance. He will have another chance to be nominated tonight, if he desires the position. Perhaps he does not desire it.

The Republican caucuses for the nomination of candidates for moderators and clerks for the voting districts and the election of members of the Republican city committee will be held in the various voting places this evening.

BELOW FREEZING.

Mercury Goes Down to 26 Sunday Morning for the First Time This Winter.

The weather has been doing something since The News was issued Saturday afternoon. It was a trifle cool Saturday, and as the night came on it semed cooler. The wind shifted to the northeast and by midnight the mercury was down to 28, for the first time this season, and ice in shallow protected places had frozen, also for the first time. The thermometer marked 26 at 8 o'clock Sunday morning, with the wind still northeast. It came up to 37 at noon and 39 at 2 p. m. the wind veering to the northwest and feeling pretty fair. It was really an ideal day, and did not feel cold until after the sun went down, when there was a taste of March in the air.

This morning it was just above the freezing mark at 8 o'clock. The wind then veered from northeast to southeast and it grew warm, so that at noon it felt comfortable in the sun and was not chilly in the shade.

The ice on some of the shallow ponds lasted to some extent all day. It was the first ice exhibit of the season, and was pretty light at that.

The weather was so pleasant in the afternoon that pedestrians were to be found all over town and in the country. The air was unusually clear and it was no trouble to see Block Island from points at Rocky Farm which have a view of the sea to the southwest.

PROBATE COURT.

In the probate court this morning the will of Ann Logier was proved and letters testamentary thereon were granted to Edward L. Tierney. The first and final accounts of the administrators on the estates of Jesse Boyden and Robert K. Stoddard and of the executor on the estate of David Sullivan were allowed and ordered recorded. The inventory of the estate of Nancy Hazard was ordered recorded. Permission was granted to sell personal property of the estate of Jane Blount.

Petitions for increase of the executor's bond on the estate of Anna Hazard, for sale of real estate of Charles Talbot Smith and for probate of the will of Julia A. Burke were continued to November 28.

SEASON FOR DEER OPENS.

Massachusetts Lays Down Strict Laws for Its Hunters.

BOSTON, Nov. 21.—In invasion of the hills and forests of Massachusetts by hundreds of hunters at sunrise this morning, signalized the opening of the first season for deer that the state has permitted for more than a decade. The area in which the animals may be hunted is restricted to the counties of Hampshire, Hampden, Berkshire, Franklin and Worcester. Only one deer may be killed by each hunter. Whenever a deer is shot, whether killed or not, the fact must be reported immediately to the commissioner of fisheries and game, at his office in the state house. Non-compliance with this law incurs liability to a fine of $100. Early morning reports from the hunting districts indicated that the deer were generally plentiful but the difficulty of cutting them down had been greatly increased by the hostility of the farmers who have posted nearly a quarter of a million acres of land.

WORK ON THE SEA WALL.

During the Blustering and Chilly Weather the Men Cheered by Mrs. Brown's Hot Coffee.

Satisfactory progress is being made with the sea wall on Wellington avenue, which is practically completed almost to the wooden pier leading out toward the Lime Rocks, while some of the lower part of the wall to the east is also in place. The men have been bothered by the severe northwest winds of the past few days, which have greatly retarded the work. During those blustering and chilly days the workmen on the wall have had cause to remember the thoughtfulness of Mrs John Nicholas Brown, who has sent out hot coffee and rolls to serve as a bracer, that being a temperance district. Young John Nicholas Brown has been out with the coffee, handing it to the men and enjoying doing so.

When this wall is finished and the roadway is filled in there will be a big improvement in this section. With the large part of the wall in position one can appreciate the great widening of the road and the consequent improvement for general use. Then there is the aesthetic side. The old arrangment was what is commonly called "an eyesore," while the new one will be a thing of beauty to the eye as well as a great material benefit.

There are other improvements which could be made in this district, and they can be appreciated by driving over some of the roads called King roads, which show the ravages of time, and more especially the results of washings, even if there has not been much rain lately.

THE BIJOU THEATRE PROGRAM.

New pictures at the Bijou Theatre are "Tunny Fishing off Palmere Italy," an industrial scene, tunny fishing being a great industry in the Mediterranean and this picture showing how the fishing is conducted on the northern coast of Sicily; "Settled Out of Court," in which a child musician takes a prominent part; "In the Shadow of the Night," a story teaching a lesson in kindness, and "On the Doorsteps," a comedy. The vaudeville part of the program consists of Willard, Kingsley & Bolton, presenting a one-act drama entitled "The Blue and the Grey," a military episode of the days of 1863; Jacob Bros., comedy acrobats, and Conroy & Collins.

A WHITE CROW.

Mr. William Thomas of Prudence Island was in town today, with a rarity in the form of a white crow. White blackbirds have been mentioned, and every one knows that a blackbird is comparatively white compared to a crow, and this was a white crow. He had legs and bills of the regulation black, but his plumage was whitish, and he looked white in the air when he came sailing over the beach at Prudence, where he was shot. He was sold to Mr. J. M. K. Southwick.

PREPARING FOR THE 1909-1910 GAME.

After a lay-off since the New Bedford game, the Rogers High School football squad began practicing today, to be in readiness for the contest with the champion school team of 1908. The 1910 boys are being drilled in a number of new plays, which are expected to surprise the "old grads."

Manager Burnham is directing the 1909 team's practice, which is being held nightly on the flatiron lot on Broadway. Though the line-up has not been made public as yet, it is known that the team will not include all 1908 players.

At a meeting of the boys, after school in the assembly hall today, a cheering squad was suggested by Manager McLennan. Lloyd Curtis was elected cheer leader, and a meeting was planned for Tuesday afternoon to practice cheers.

LOCAL BRIEFS.

—Barge Balloon is discharging a cargo of coal for Pinniger & Manchester.

—Mr. Will A. Hildreth spoke at the Walter Lowrie Club Sunday afternoon. The club quartet sang at the Newport Asylum.

—It is reported that several times of late, including Sunday night, the gum factory has been broken into, and there have been signs of the visitors roaming about.

—Mr. Thomas E Hunt, manager of the Hall & Lyon Company's store, has gone to Lonsdale to see his father, Colonel Jonathan Hunt, who is suffering from rheumatism.

—The Adams Express had a private horse car this morning from New York, with the horses from "Oakland" and "Sandy Point" farms, exhibited at the New York Horse Show. The car came in with the 9 o'clock train.

—The storm sash are going on the City Hall today. That first real frost has done the trick. These storm sash save a great deal of coal in the course of the winter.

—The floats of the Newport Yacht Club are receiving their fall painting at the shipyard. As the floats stay in all winter, and are used all winter, they need some attention now.

—A. H. Hendy, E. T. Lee and J. Myron Leavitt of New York, L. T. Smith and F. C. Bailey of Boston, C. A. Kane, J. F. Douglass and Frank Kelly of Providence are registered at the Perry House.

—J. B. Parsonage & Son have leased for Mr. and Mrs. William Hanson their cottage on the northwest corner of Prospect Hill and Corne streets to Mrs. Elizabeth Fitzgerald.

—Torpedo boat destroyer Drayton, Lieutenant Commander Henry C. Dinger, arrived at the Torpedo Station this morning from Portsmouth, N. H., for torpedo and oil supplies, before proceeding south for the winter.

—Turkeys have begun to arrive for Thanksgiving. They are fine in appearance and one can tell at a glance that they are fine in price. They are bound to be fine in price, for the supply does not equal the demand.

—Fishing steamer Winona landed 21 barrels of fish this morning, 14 being codfish; also two sturgeon. The Winona then went to Tiverton, for more gear. It is proposed to run the traps all winter if the fish show up, as the prices are good.

—When firemen and others were returning from the fire between 2 and 3 o'clock this morning it was noticed that three of the gas lights on Third street had been smashed and this morning a large foreign sea shell was picked up at the light near box 163. When these lights were passed on the way to the fire they all seemed to be burning, that at the box being particularly remembered, so that it would hardly seem as if this time the damage could be laid to men or apprentices returning to the station.

naya Pollana, where, together with its furniture, it will become a part of the proposed Tolstoi museum.

Tolstoi left a written wish that he be buried without pomp, wreaths or rites, under Poverty Oak, on a hillock at Yasnaya Pollana, where he played as a child, and where the peasants were accustomed to congregate. The funeral will be held Tuesday, and the police have been mobilized to prevent public demonstrations.

AN ACTIVE BRANCH.

"Something Doing" in Boys' Department of the Y. M. C. A. Nearly Every Evening.

The boys' department of the Young Men's Christian Association is one of the most active branches of the work, with "something doing" in one or another field every evening in the week. Tonight the Grammar School Bible class, in which about 20 boys are enrolled for a course in "Introduction to Bible Study," taught by Mr. E. L. Jackson, will hold its regular meeting. After the class a marshmallow supper will be the social feature, following the plan of having something special each week, arranged by various members. Tonight James Hidler and Harry Lawton will be in charge.

Tuesday night the Boys' Department cabinet will meet to plan for the coming of Mr. H. W. Gibson, state boys' secretary for Massachusetts and Rhode Island, who is expected to be here December 3 and 4.

Wednesday evening the Employed Boys will have their club night, meeting early for supper, which will be followed by a club meeting and debate. Later the Employed Boys Bible class will meet, taking up "Life's Problems of Employed Boys." The evening's program will close with a swim.

A High School Club of 15 members has been organized and meets Thursday evenings for a 15-cent supper, followed by a class taking Jenks's "Life's Questions of High School Boys." The club officers are as follows: President, Charles Wigren; secretary, August Titus; treasurer, James Powell; teacher, Ellis L. Jackson. The High School Club will not meet this week, as all the branches of the Boys' Department will be closed Thursday, Thanksgiving day. At the next meeting the subject of discussion will be "Custom: Habit."

Friday evening the Fireside Club will meet and have a talk on "Hitting the Trail."

Sunday afternoon 10 of the Employed Boys and Mr. Jackson walked around the Ocean drive, stopping on the way for a short service. On their return they stopped at the home of their president, Julian Johnson, on Meikle avenue, where cake and coffee were served and the boys spent a social hour.

MUST EQUAL EUROPEAN PRICES.

Argentine Meat Companies Not to Ship to This Country.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—So far as known none of the Argentine meat companies controlled by North American interests are contemplating meat shipments to the United States, according to further information concerning the operation of United States capital in the Argentine meat supply, transmitted by Commercial Agent James D. Wheelpley to the Department of Commerce and Labor today.

This state of affairs will continue, Mr. Wheripley reports, until prices in the United States equal those of Europe, as the North American interest admitted gained control of a part of the trade in the Argentine, with a view of supplying the European demand after extensive increase in home consumption in the United States had caused a decline in American exports of the product. "The most important aspect of the meat situation in the Argentine republic," said Mr. Wheelpley, "is the growing influence of United States capital in that direction. The American companies, which control materially the meat supply of the United States, entered the Argentine field barely half a dozen years ago, but have already attained a commanding position, by reason of their capital and progressive methods. United States companies do not yet control, so far as is currently known, a majority of either the companies or the cold storages, but their production is increasing more rapidly than that of the Argentine or English plants, and they have purchased land on the Parana river, presumably with a view to erecting freezing works. The two avowedly North American companies already are shipping about a third of the total of frozen beef and mutton and more than half of the chilled beef.

NOTHING IN THE CORNER-STONE.

The corner-stone of the old First Congregational Church on Mill street was removed Saturday and placed in the United Congregational Church, where a permanent location will be found for it. Contrary to expectations, there was nothing in the stone, beneath or below it; no copper box containing documents and no cavity for a box. It is evident that in 1729, when the corner-stone was laid, it was not the custom to place boxes in or beneath the corner-stone of public buildings.

BIG INCREASE OVER 1900.

The Thirteenth Census Gives Population of Kansas as 1,690,949.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—The population of the state of Kansas is 1,690,949, according to the statistics of the Thirteenth census made public today by Director Durand. This is an increase of 220,454, or 16.0 per cent over 1,470,495 in 1900. The increase during the previous decade from 1890 to 1900 was 41,373, or 2.9 per cent.

Utmost Care and Caution.

If there is one department in a drug store that requires the utmost care and caution, it is the PRESCRIPTION department. It ought to be clean and sweet at all times and never without a skilled pharmacist in charge. We have such a department, and none but registered men are employed there. Our method of checking prescriptions makes an error an impossibility—besides, we use only the purest and freshest of drugs and chemicals, and you can always rest assured that whatever comes from our store is as near right as can be. Bring your prescriptions to us—you will find our prices satisfactory.

POPULAR IN NAVAL CIRCLES.

Paymaster Auld Married to Miss Madeline Gray Swift at Richfield Springs, N. Y.

The marriage of Miss Madeline Gray Swift, youngest daughter of Rear Admiral William Swift, U. S. N., (retired), to George Percival Auld, paymaster in the navy, took place early Saturday evening at the home of the bride's parents at Richfield Springs, N. Y. Only relatives and a few friends were present at the ceremony, which was performed by Rev. Wellington P. Francisco, of the First Presbyterian Church.

The bride was given away by her father and was attended by her sister, Miss Virginia Swift. The best man was Frederick Wright of New York. Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Auld and Miss Marguerite Auld of Burlington, Vt., parents and sister of the bridegroom; W. Garfield Swift of Pittsburg, brother of the bride; and Mrs. Edgar Robinson of Mansfield, Ohio, were present at the wedding.

After the ceremony a small reception was held. Paymaster Auld has just returned from a cruise and is at present attached to cruiser Washington. He expects to be stationed this winter at Hampton Roads where many festivities will probably be given for the young couple, who are popular in naval circles.

Paymaster Auld attracted much attention as the result of having knocked down Dr. E. S. Cowles, cousin of Rear Admiral W. S. Cowles, at a navy dance in Charlestown, Mass., last December. It was charged that Dr. Cowles had made insinuating remarks about Miss Dorothy Hesler of Chicago, a visitor in Boston. Miss Swift was a prominent figure at the resulting trial of Auld and Passed Assistant Surgeon A. H. Robnett. It was believed there was some connection between the quarrel and Auld's attachment for Miss Swift. At the last moment she had broken her engagement to Harry Dyer Storer of Atlanta, who had come to Boston for the wedding.

At the trial Miss Swift testified that Dr. Cowles had been forcing his unwelcome attentions on Miss Hesler. It was learned at that time that Dr. Robnett and Miss Hesler were to be married. The accused young man escaped without serious punishment. Though convicted on some counts, their sentences were commuted to loss of numbers.

TIVERTON.

Tiverton promises to be unusually busy this winter. The revival of the menhaden fishing business with Captain Nathaniel B. Church as general manager, will bring a good deal of work to the town. A large boathouse is being erected near Humphrey's wharf, which will keep a number of boatbuilders busy. The stable and garage owned by Mr. William N. Andrews has been sold and the upper stories will be used for storage and the ground floor for a seine manufactory. Mr. Andrews sold Saturday his entire livery equipment and household effects. The new company of which Captain Church will be general manager had no property in Tiverton or Portsmouth, the latter fisheries company being owned by the company organized two years ago, of which O. J. Dekuney is general manager. It is probable that some of the steamers owned by the new company, and possibly all of them, will be laid up in the basin between the bridges during the winter.

LOCAL BRIEFS.

Vanderbilt, Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish, Mrs. Hermann Oelrichs and a number of other women are contributing prizes for the bridge tournament which Frederick Townsend Martin has organized for Tuesday afternoon at the Plaza Hotel in New York, for the benefit of the charity known as the Tuberculosis Night Camp.

HOW THEY WERE DEFEATED.

The Republican Congressmen Who Lost Are Explaining.

Minority Will Make Itself Felt Against Democrats—Cannon Likely to be Speaker.

[Washington correspondence of the News.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.— "How it all happened" has been and for some time after Congress assembles will be the chief attraction at the Congressional theatre. Ever since the result of November 8 was known, men who were defeated have been explaining to their friends or any one who would listen. A few are content simply to say, "I didn't get votes enough," but most of them go into minute details as to the whys and wherefores of their defeat.

"After every Congressional election," remarked John Allen, the Mississippi wit, "I kept away from the house for a week or 10 days. By that time the fellows who were defeated had told all about it so many times that they let me off and I missed hearing all their troubles." Others less wary have to listen to the stories of defeat, and every teller seems to have a special explanation to fit his own particular case.

According to several Republicans who can remember the political cyclone of 20 years ago, the late disaster might have been worse. Then 88 Republicans were returned to the House, the smallest number that was ever known since the party was organized. There will be 165 Republicans in the Sixty-second Congress unless belated returns and official counts relegate a few more to private life. With 165 members a vigorous minority can make itself felt, and it is promised that the Democratic majority shall not be allowed to repose upon a bed of roses.

There is only one drawback to the program of the Republicans. They are far from a solidly united party. Regulars and Insurgents are wide apart, and when the time comes to choose a minority leader the fight between the factions bids fair to be quite intense.

Mr. Cannon, the present Speaker, cannot forgive the Insurgents for the pestiferous manner in which they performed during the last session. The Insurgents, returning to Congress with a victory for themselves second only to that won by the Democrats, will not be inclined to follow Cannon as a minority leader, but will consider such men as Norris of Nebraska and Murdock of Kansas as men to shape the policies of the party.

"It doesn't make any difference whether or not the Republican caucus makes Mr. Cannon the leader of the minority in the next House" remarked an old timer at the Capitol. "He will be the leader of any body of which he is a member. I remember when they undertook to make Morrison the leader of a party of which Sam Randall was a member. Randall always was the leader, whether by designation or otherwise. And it will be so with Cannon. Who have the Republicans got to put forward as a leader? I tell you Cannon will be the leader of the Republicans as long as he is a member of the House."

Sporadic booms for Speaker will crop out from time to time, but before the Sixty-second Congress assembles it will be settled that Champ Clark of Missouri will be the Speaker. There has not been a Speakership contest since the Fifty-second Congress assembled, when Crisp defeated Mills. Every Speaker since then has been practically agreed upon long before Congress met. The same will be true in the present instance and in a short time no one will even suggest any one except Champ Clark.

Just because several political campaign managers made claims right up to the last moment it must not be assumed that they did not see the storm coming. One of these was Congressman Loudenslager, secretary of the Republican Congressional campaign committee. A correspondent of a Republican paper went to see him, stating that he wanted to write a review of the situation showing that the Republicans would carry the House.

"Don't come to me if you want anything of that kind," replied Loudy. "I can't give you any hope or encouragement. We're licked, and it is only a question of how bad it will be. I am not saying anything for publication, but I know from our reports that it is all over except the size of the Democratic majority."

"Claude Swanson is the first Virginian governor to be sent to the Senate in more than half a century," remarked Congressman Carlin of that state. "It has been the custom of Virginia to make the governorship a comfortable shelf upon which our statesmen can repose."

The governorship of Virginia is considered such a high honor that your true Virginian has some doubts as to whether a man who has once held the office should ever aspire to another, even the Presidency.

Arthur W. Dunn.

DISPOSAL OF GARBAGE.

Many Objections to Present Method and a Practical Solution of the Problem Needed.

[Civic League Bulletin.]

Three great problems confront the modern city; the purification of its water supply, the sterilization of its sewage and the sanitary disposal of its household waste. Most American communities have reached a tolerable solution of the first problem. The second is beginning to receive the attention it demands. The third in most cases is neglected.

The early occupants of Rhode Island had little trouble from these problems. When the surroundings of a wigwam or village became malodorous to the not over sensitive Indian nostril, it was a simple process for the family to move house and all. Later the white man turned his sewage and garbage into the gutter of his streets. Charles Dickens in his "American Notes" describing the New York of 1842 pictures in a delightful way, fat sows rolling up Broadway in the wake of fashionable carriages, and stopping now and then to pick a dainty morsel from the mud. One need not travel widely to find the "gutter method" of disposal still in vogue—and the piggery, or city farm, where swine are fed on swill is even now the prized possession of many a fastidious community.

Newport uses only a selected few of its gutters for sewage, and the city piggery is now (alas!) no more. We still follow the custom of our Indian forefathers, however, and dump our garbage just outside our doors. The difference is one of degree (or distance) rather than of kind.

What are the objections to the present method of disposal?

First—The swill lies exposed to the sun at City wharf. It sours, breeds flies and feeds rats, until a load is collected of suitable size to be towed to sea.

Second—Comes the malodorous procession of tug and scow among the dainty vessels in the harbor.

Third—The revolting material is dumped at sea to fatten the fish which are caught by our fishermen's traps, while a portion floats until waves and tides bring it again to our shores.

What can be done instead?

Two methods for the sanitary disposal of garbage have been found practicable.

The first or reduction process, aims to recover fats and nitrogenous matter which are contained in all food waste. In plants erected for this purpose, the offal has to be sorted to remove paper, glass, bones, tin cans, etc. It is then conveyed to huge air-tight digesters or cookers, where for a period of several hours it is subjected to the action of live steam under considerable pressure. The mass is sterilized, the grease melted out and pumped off and the residue dropped into presses, which extract most of the water. The semi-dry product, called tankage, is then available for use as fertilizer.

Such a plant has been in operation at New Bedford, Mass., for several years, and has given satisfaction in the main. It is necessarily located in an isolated region however, as the storage and sorting of the refuse may easily give rise to nuisance unless very carefully conducted. For this reason the process appears unsuited for the environment of Newport.

A second method which is successfully employed in a number of places requires nothing more complicated than a furnace constructed to bring about complete incineration of the waste. This process, while at first sight wasteful, as it affords no saving of the really valuable organized nitrogen and carbon, is on the whole more sanitary, because more efficient and less objectionable.

The garbage is fed upon drying arches or grates as fast as it is received. When sufficiently dry it is dropped upon a live fire, and burns with a clear flame until wholly consumed. If properly handled the gases arising from the drying process, are burned and rendered odorless before entering the stack. That such a plant may operate without discharging noxious gases into the air is amply proved by the fact that an incinerator has been in use at the Training Station for two or three years. How many of our citizens have known of its presence?

What can be done to bring about the erection of such a plant for Newport? Such an installation was recommended by the committee on public health as far back as 1888 and its necessity has been repeatedly urged by the present Board of Health. What is needed is an aroused public sentiment which shall demand of the Representative Council an appropriation for this purpose. The present contract for the disposal of garbage expires at the end of another year. Talk to the councilmen in your neighborhood. Write to the press. Newport has made great strides in municipal sanitation during the last few years. Do not allow this vital need of our civic housekeeping longer to be neglected.

FLOOD CAUSES HEAVY LOSSES.

The River Seine Begins to Subside Slightly Again.

PARIS, Nov. 21.—The river Seine was falling slightly again today. The flood has caused heavy losses to property owners and hundreds of tenants have been obliged to abandon the houses bordering on the river, because of dampness.

AN INCREASE OVER 1909.

Census Bureau Reports 8,764,153 Bales of Cotton Ginned This Year.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—Cotton of the growth of 1910 ginned to November 14, according to the Census Bureau's report issued at 10 o'clock, today, amounts to 8,764,153 bales, counting round as half bales. Last year to November 14 there there was ginned 8,112,199 bales, or 80.5 per cent of the total crop of 10,072,731 bales, and in 1908 the ginning was 9,595,809 bales or 73.3 per cent of the total crop of 13,086,005 bales.

By states the number of bales ginned to November 14, are: Alabama, 891,631; Arkansas, 474,422; Florida, 46,765; Georgia, 1,434,695; Louisiana, 184,058; Mississippi, 756,145; North Carolina, 494,723; Oklahoma, 722,237; South Carolina, 888,209; Tennessee, 192,213; Texas, 2,586,944; all other states 38,370.

Round bales included this year are 91,939 compared with 123,757 in 1909 and 173,908 in 1908.

Sea island cotton included is 52,585, compared with 58,495 in 1909, and 56,701 in 1908. The distribution of Sea island cotton for 1910 by states is: Florida 19,669; Georgia 28,032 and South Carolina 4,884.

NO CASUALTIES FROM FIRE.

Much Property Damaged by Flames in Two Sections of New York.

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—Bad fires in two widely separated sections of the city today drove hundreds of persons panic stricken into the streets and caused property damage approximating $160,000. So far as can be learned there were no casualties. The worst damage was that at a fire which destroyed the Throop Avenue Presbyterian Church in Brooklyn, badly damaging adjoining buildings and caused a panic in the aristocratic neighborhood, where apartment dwellers rushed into the streets by hundreds, fearful for their safety. Upwards of $125,000 damage resulted from the burning of the church. The church records and its silver communion service were saved in a daring rush through the flames, by firemen and police. The fire started mysteriously in the chapel.

In a fire in Bronx borough eight two-story frame dwellings on the southern boulevard were burned, the blaze spreading so rapidly that hundreds of people were compelled to flee in their night clothes. For a time the entire block seemed doomed and there were fears of loss of life, but despite the swift spread of the flames, everybody in the houses distroyed escaped.

REPORTS EXAGGERATED.

Rumors Made to Detract from Success of Festivities in 1911.

ROME, Nov. 21.—In a speech opening the session of the municipal council today, Mayor Nathan complained that interested hotel keepers abroad, especially in America and Switzerland, had given currency to exaggerated reports of the cholera epidemic in Italy, thus serving "the lower interested motives of the clericals, who wish to detract from the success of the festivities in 1911, in celebration of the proclamation of Rome as the capital of United Italy."

Considering the influx of people from the provinces to the capital it was impossible, the mayor said, to avoid sporadic cases in Rome, but measures had been adopted to isolate the sick and prevent contagion, with the result that in four months there had been but 23 cases, with 11 deaths in the city, a lesser number than had occurred in Berlin, Vienna and Budapest. Nathan referred once more, but briefly, to his controversy with the Vatican and hinted at a possible connection between the artificially spread fears of cholera and "the fears trumpeted in the name of the health of the soul, which means war against Rome and the patriotic manifestations of 1911."

OLNEYVILE MILL TO RE-OPEN

Revival Being Experienced in Woolen Industry in Rhode Island.

PROVIDENCE, Nov. 21.—A revival is being experienced in the woolen and worsted manufacturing industries in this state. In Woonsocket the "boom" is more pronounced, most of the mills running with their full complement of operatives, while some have to run nights as well as days, to fill the orders for goods. The depressing situation in Olneyville, the largest woolen and worsted manufacturing section in the country, has been brightened by the announcement that the Harrisville Mill, which for two years has been idle, is soon to be started up with a full corps of operatives, following its recent purchase by the Paragon Worsted Company of Woonsocket. Another motive for optimistic feeling in this district is the expected opening of the Revere Rubber Company's new branch, which will give employment to 1,500 hands. The United States Rubber Company, which controls this company, is expending $500,000 in new buildings and equipment. A heavy demand for yarn is one of the factors in the mill activity in Woonsocket, where there are several French spinning companies.

LODGE URGED TO WITHDRAW.

Foss Promises a Big Contest If Senator Stands for Re-Election.

BOSTON, Nov. 21.—Senator Henry Cabot Lodge read carefully Governor-elect Eugene N. Foss's statement in this morning's papers, calling upon the Senator to withdraw as a candidate for re-election, but made no comment. Senator Lodge said he did not know whether he would make a reply. If he decided to do so he would not make it today. The Senator's friends say he is waiting to hear from various parts of the state before taking any notice publicly of Mr. Foss's demand.

The governor-elect in his statement demands that Senator Lodge immediately withdraw from his contest for re-election. Mr. Foss says that if the Senator refuses he will go into every city and town in the state in a campaign to defeat him, and promises a fight that will make the one decided at the polls November 8 look like an afternoon tea party. "The people," the governor-elect asserts, "will not permit him longer to manipulate the legislature."

also charged to make every effort to discover and suppress any illegal expeditions forming on United States territory, while the collectors of customs at the Treasury Department are doing their part. The work of prevention is attended with difficulty for the reason that it is not always possible to interfere with the activities of the revolutionists before they have committed any acts.

In the case of Francisco Madero, the alleged head of the present uprising, who is reported in the newspapers to have been buying horses in Texas, and to have crossed the border line into Mexico, the officials are not clear that they have any legal right to arrest him before it has been established that he had been guilty under the neutrality laws of organizing a military expedition. The mere accumulation of arms and ammunition on the Texas side of the line is not in itself sufficient to warrant their seizure, unless it is clearly manifested that they were part of the tools of an illegal expedition. As soon as evidence is forthcoming in the case of either men or arms the military will seize the latter and the district attorneys will arrest and prosecute the former.

Apparently the Mexican government is highly appreciative of the efforts of our own government to meet its full obligations under international law and it is noticeable that Americans who get into trouble in Mexico are being treated with the greatest leniency.

It is said at the War Department that Captain Hoyt, in command of the Department of Texas, has received no instructions from the department for the disposition of his forces, but is simply acting under the department injunction to rigidly execute the provisions of the neutrality law.

It is believed the federal troops in Texas are ample to meet any emergency that may arise along the border line. The soldiers available for immediate service are stationed at the following points: Ten troops of the Third cavalry, the entire regiment of the Twenty-second infantry and three batteries of the Third field artillery, at Fort Sam Houston; a battalion of the Twenty-third infantry at each of the following posts: Forts McIntosh, Clark and Bliss; two troops of cavalry at Fort Huachuca, Arizona, one battalion of the Eighteenth infantry at Whipple barracks, Arizona.

DEATH OF JAMES M. LEDDY.

Mr. James M. Leddy, brother of Alderman John E. Leddy, died at an early hour this morning at the Newport Hospital, where for the past few days his end has been awaited, as there was no chance of his recovery. Hardening of the arteries was the cause of death. Mr. Leddy was a carpenter, and a good one, and had worked on the best jobs in Newport during his many years of service. He came here when a lad and had since been an active worker, and up to his sickness seemed as jolly and lively as ever. He was a member of the Foresters and of the Carpenters & Joiners Union.

NINE MEASURES CARRIED.

Portland's Highest Vote Given to the Initiative Prohibition Law.

PORTLAND, Oregon, Nov. 21.—Official figures of the initiative and referendum measures, submitted to the voters of this state, show that of the 32 submitted nine were carried and 23 defeated. The highest vote was on the initiative prohibition law. Approximately 106,000 votes were cast, 42,649, for and 63,564 against.

ORGANIC LAW TO BE DRAFTED.

Arizona's Constitution to Contain Little Legislative Matter.

PHOENIX, Ariz, Nov. 21.—Arizona's constitutional convention will entertain on its final period today, the actual drafting of the organic law of the new state. Although numerous so-called radical provisions have been adopted, the constitution will not be a lengthy affair. Final completion will probably show it to be less than one third the size of that of Oklahoma, containing comparatively little purely legislative matters.

A SPECIAL CONFERENCE.

Newport District Sunday School Association to Hold a Meeting for Workers.

A special Sunday School conference will be held at the Young Men's Christian Association Monday evening, November 28, under the auspices of the Newport District Sunday School Association. At 6 o'clock there will be a supper for ministers, superintendents and delegates from the various schools of the city, to be followed by a paper by Mr. Wilfred H. Chaplin and a discussion on the general theme, "A Suggestive Policy of Co-operation." At 8:15 in the Association Hall there will be a meeting of Sunday School workers, teachers and students, with an address by Rev. E. S. Ninde, D. D., of the Mathewson Street Methodist Episcopal Church, Providence, on "None Like It; a Plea for the Old Sword." The object of the conference is to find ways and means of co-operation between the Sunday Schools of Newport, in order to strengthen the work in the individual schools.

MIDDLETOWN.

Thanksgiving Sermons Preached at Berkeley Memorial Chapel and Methodist Church.

[Reg. Correspondence of The News.

Rev. Arthur N. Peaslee was the morning preacher Sunday at the Berkeley Memorial Chapel. His sermon was on the inward and spiritual observance of Thanksgiving and he touched briefly upon the causes for thanksgiving, from the year 1620 to the present time. His text was taken from Exodus XVI: 27: "And it came to pass that there went out some of the people on the seventh day for to gather." The hymn "America" followed the sermon. In the evening the services were resumed at the Berkeley parish house for the winter.

Rev. Clayton E. Dolamater preached a Thanksgiving sermon Sunday afternoon at the Methodist Episcopal Church, taking as his text Psalm LI: 17; "The sacrifices of God are a broken spirit; a broken and a contrite heart, O God, thou will not despise." In the evening he spoke especially of the love of Jesus (Matthew XXVI) reading the poem, "The Kingdom of the Meek." Priscilla Leonard, and giving the solo, "Lead me, Saviour."

Mr. and Mrs. Edward E. Peckham left Sunday evening for New York, en route for Eustis, Fla., where they will spend the winter. Three cases of household goods were shipped some weeks ago, as Mr. and Mrs. Peckham expect to occupy this winter their own home, which was being finished last spring when they returned here.

Mr. Nathan Smith has begun work on the cellar for his new house on Third Beach road. The cottage house to be erected will be 27 by 39½ feet.

The poetical drama, "Chantecler," by Edmond Rostand, translated from the French by Miss Gertrude Hall, will be read by the members of the Oliphant Club, the program to be conducted by Mrs. Abram Chase.

Mrs. Henry Howard of Brookline, Mass., was guest Sunday of her mother, Mrs. Eugene Sturtevant, on Purgatory road. Mrs. Sturtevant and her three daughters, Misses Helena, Louise and Mary, will sail Saturday for Paris, where they expect to remain until May. Misses Helena and Louise Sturtevant expect to continue their art studies abroad.

Mrs. C. E. Dolamater will leave Tuesday for West Bridgewater, Mass., where she will spend Thanksgiving with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Billings. She will be joined Wednesday by her husband, Rev. C. E. Dolamater, and their son, Edgar.

St. George's School has received a national flag, presented by William M. Wood, Jr. Recent gifts to the chapel have also been made by Mr. Arthur E. Newbold.

The salad supper to be given under the direction of Mrs. I. Lincoln Sherman will be for the benefit of the choir fund of Holy Cross and St. Mary's churches.

JAMESTOWN.

[Regular correspondence of the News.]

Mr B. S. Cottrell of Charlotte, S. C., is guest of his mother, Mrs. Ellen Cottrell, on Brook street.

Mr. John E. Watson is in Providence for the day.

Mrs. William E. Wilmerding sailed for Europe on the Adriatic.

Mrs. Keith has taken an apartment in New York, where Miss Keith will continue her vocal studies during the winter.

Mr. Frank Cory, who has occupied the Mauran farm, has moved his household goods to Middletown.

Mr. William H. Langley of Newport has commenced work on a bungalow on the Shore road, near the bungalow started for Mr. J. D. Johnston a few days ago.

Miss A. E. Barber is in Providence.

Mr. Hathaway, of New Bedford, was a guest on the island over Sunday.

Steamer Conanicut made a special trip this noon, taking to Newport six large loads of hay.

Donations for the King's Daughters' Thanksgiving baskets are being received at J. E. Watson's store.

Barge Valentine is in with a cargo of coal for the ferry company.

There was a decided falling off in the number of visitors to the island Sunday, only a few caring to brave the chilly wind to fish from the rocks.

The first afternoon trip of the ferryboat will be omitted Thanksgiving day, to allow the crew an opportunity to enjoy their dinner.

A FRIEND OF THE RACE.

Four Colored Churches Unite in a Memorial Service.

Addresses on the Life of Mrs. Julia Ward Howe as Woman and Philanthropist.

A well attended memorial service for Mrs. Julia Ward Howe was held Sunday afternoon at the Mt. Olivet Baptist Church, the four colored churches uniting. Attractive programs were distributed, on which was an excellent picture of Mrs. Howe. After the hymn, "Lead, Kindly Light," led by the choir of the Shiloh Baptist Church, Mrs. Nellie Winfort accompanist, Rev. W. H. Thomas who presided offered prayer. The choir sang "Nearer, My God, to Thee" and Mrs. T. H. Ueter spoke on "Mrs Julia Ward Howe, the Woman," after Rev. Mr. Thomas had spoken of Mrs. Howe as one of the world's greatest women. The oppression of the negro gave to the United States some of its greatest men and women, and of its great women Mrs. Harriet Beecher Stowe and Mrs. Julia Ward Howe stand out prominently. It was mentioned as a coincidence that the same week that Julia Ward Howe passed from death to fame the name of Mrs. Stowe was placed in the Hall of Fame.

In forceful and poetic style Mrs. Jeter testified to the esteem in which Mrs. Howe is held by the negro race, her youthful literary activities and the assistance she gave her husband, Dr. Samuel Gridley Howe, founder of the Perkins Institute for the Blind. Mention was made of Mrs. Howe's work in prison reform and in the anti-slavery movement. She helped edit the Boston Commonwealth and worked for the betterment of the negro, and in the autumn of the year and the autumn of her life the Great Harvester took her home.

"Meet Me There" was sung, Mrs. Octavia Dash accompanist, and Rev. W. B. Reed spoke on the topic, "Mrs. Howe as a Factor in the Life of Our Nation." He referred to the meeting for the last time of the veterans of the Mexican war and the fast approaching time of the last reunion of the veterans of the Civil war. Mrs. Howe was one of the best friends the negro race ever had. The race will always have friends, but the negroes must put their shoulders to the wheel. The negro is not discouraged but asks a fair chance and an impartial judgment.

Mr. J. O. Banks sang a solo and Dr. Marcus F. Wheatland gave a brief but illuminating address on "Mrs. Julia Ward Howe, the Philanthropist." The word philanthropist has become so closely associated with almsgiver that the original meaning of lover of men has been lost. In the truest sense of the word Mrs. Howe was a philanthropist. The beauty and grace of her character fitted everywhere. Wherever mankind suffered she felt the call to service. Greeks, Chinese, Armenians and negroes testifying to her worth. At her death she was the most distinguished woman in the world, honor having come to her not only in service, but in her bringing out the truth of the universal brotherhood of man. She did more than any other woman for the advancement of women and never spoke or wrote in an unfriendly spirit. The address was closed by the reading of Mrs. Howe's poem, "My Voyage."

After an anthem by the choir the last address of the afternoon was given by Rev. H. N. Jeter, D. D., on "Reminiscences of the Life of Mrs. Julia Ward Howe." For the past 30 years Dr. Jeter had the fortune to know Mrs. Howe, one of the sweetest-spirited women he ever met. In 1906 Dr. Jeter took the late Dr. Dixon to see Mrs. Howe. He has also taken out Rev. Israel Derricks, formerly of this city, who was educated by Mrs. Howe, and Rev. Mr. Thomas. On the occasion of Dr. Jeter's thirty-third anniversary he was congratulated by Mrs. Howe on his exceptionally long pastorate.

In her youth she gained ideals of patriotism, freedom and humanity. She called attention to "Uncle Tom's Cabin," and was a faithful apostle of freedom, working under William Lloyd Garrison, Wendell Phillips and Charles Sumner. In conclusion Dr. Jeter urged the women to follow in Mrs. Howe's footsteps, emulating her love of justice and hatred of oppression.

As no book did more to free the slaves than Harriet Beecher Stowe's "Uncle Tom's Cabin," so nothing did more for the inspiration of the soldiers than Julia Ward Howe's "Battle Hymn of the Republic," was the closing statement made by Rev. Mr. Thomas, and the memorial service was brought to an end by "The Battle Hymn," which was unusually well sung, and the benediction pronounced by Dr. Jeter.

WORK WELL ALONG.

Commodore and Mrs. James Inspect the Progress of Operations on Their Estate.

Commodore and Mrs. Arthur Curtiss James, accompanied by Mr. Whitney, of the Whitney-Steen company, were here Sunday to look over the work done on their estate since their departure for Europe. They found the road work well along. The gateways at the northeast entrance, near the Grosvenor place, and at the west entrance, near the Hague place, are both up. The driveway from the former is complete, and that from the latter, a new road curving among rocks and with a stony look, is nearly finished, but is not to be used at present. The greenhouse has been finished, the storehouse near by is well advanced and other structures are also well along. Generally there has been a clearing away of odds and ends.

The big addition to the lawn caused by the shift in the course of Beacon Hill road has been partly laid out and graded and is ready, while another portion is in process. The old road leading northwest from the house to the new cut-off is still in commission for the use of the men, as work is in progress on the house, on the roof, as well as in the interior. The shade and hedge trees planted last summer seem to have taken root, judging by their general appearance this fall; in fact, they look as though they had been there for some time. Work has been started on a stone wall along the northwest boundary, from the entrance to the garage north.

FORT GREBLE WINS.

Defeats St. Andrew's Chapter Football Team at Gorham Park, Providence, by 5 to 0.

The Fort Greble foot ball team won Saturday from the St. Andrew's Chapter team at Gorham Park, Providence, by a score of 5 to 0. Fort Greble made the only touchdown, in the first period. St. Andrew's played the better offensive game and several times were within 10 yards of the Fort Greble goal but the soldiers were strong on the defensive and prevented further gains. Noble of St. Andrew's made a 60-yard run in the fourth period for a touchdown, but the score was not allowed, owing to illegal interference. The line up was as follows:

Fort Greble.	St. Andrew's.
Walsh, r. e.,	l. e., Miller
Furgason, r. t.,	l. t., Bates, McNaught
Brown, r. g.,	l. g., Durfee, Andrews
Sweeck, c.,	c., Bates
Tyler, l. g.,	r. g., Noble, Corey
Ryer, l. t.,	r. t., Brooks, Noble
Connington, r. e.,	r. e., Brown, Parker, Eddy
Mohr, Daiglish, l. h. b.,	r. h. b., Laight
Lillie, r. h. b.,	l. h. b., G. Corey
Elkey, f. b.,	f. b., Jordan
Johnson, Geary, q. b.,	q. b., Dunser

Referee—Dix. Umpire—Simons. Field Judge—Sidebottom. Head linesman—Nickerson. Time—12-minute quarters.

At Fall River Saturday the Durfee High School team defeated East Greenwich Academy, 28 to 0. Enwright made the first touchdown for Fall River in the first five minutes of play.

The Fort Adams eleven will play at Woonsocket Thanksgiving day with the team from scout cruiser Salem, now at Boston.

Sunday the Tigers, a down-town aggregation, defeated the Point Athletic team, 12 to 0. There was some talk about the moving of flags, which acted for goal posts, and there was no question but the crowd interfered with both teams.

The Providence Tribune announces that the Fort Adams and scout cruiser Salem team's will meet at North Attleboro Thanksgiving day and that the Fort Adams band will be there to make music for everybody.

A SUCCESSFUL HORSE SHOW.

Closes With Largest Attendance in Ten Years and Interest Maintained to the End.

The national Horse Show closed Saturday evening after a successful week, the attendance having been the largest in 10 years and the interest maintained to the end. In the last day's awards Mr. Alfred G. Vanderbilt's horses appeared but twice, his Hamlet and Hertes being defeated by William H. Moore's horses in two events, in which the Oakland Farm entries took second place. In the class for harness horses, 16 hands and over Hamlet and Hertes were placed second to Mr. Moore's Robin Hood and Burgomaster, and in the championship class for the large horses they were given the reserve, the championship also going to Mr. Moore's pair. The championships were awarded as follows:

Harness horse, over 14.3 and not exceeding 15 hands—J. W. Harriman's Lady Dilham, with W. H. Moore's Flourish in reserve.

Harness horse, 15 and not exceeding 15.3 hands—W. H. Moore's Lady Seaton, C. W. Watson's Lord Baltimore in reserve.

Harness horse, over 15.3 hands—J. W. Harriman's Nala, W. H. Moore's Burgomaster in reserve.

Harness pairs, over 14.2 and not exceeding 15 hands—W. H. Moore's Whitehall Ariel and Vesta, same owner's Phyllis and Menella in reserve.

Harness pairs, over 15 and not exceeding 15.3 hands—W. H. Moore's Lady Seaton and Lord Seaton, C. W. Watson's Lord Baltimore and My. Maryland in reserve.

Harness pairs, over 15.3 hands—W. H. Moore's Robin Hood and Burgomaster, A. G. Vanderbilt's Hamlet and Hertes in reserve.

Saddle horse, heavy-weight class—Florham Farm's Florham Flirtation, Farmdale Farm's Heartspring in reserve.

Saddle horse, in middle and light-weight classes—Lawrence Jones's Poetry of Motion, Farmhill Farm's Indian Flower in reserve.

Judge William K. Moore was the king of the show. Saturday night he drove off with four championships and two reserve ribbons in championship events, there being only six for harness classes on the evening's program. In all, therefore, not counting second, thirds and fourths, he won in the course of the show 23 blues and four championships.

POLICE MATTERS.

Officers to Report Business Concerns Not Operating Under Names of Their Proprietors.

Sunday the police had a man charged with taking articles from the Five and Ten Cent store and neglecting to pay therefor. The sales value of the goods taken was 70 cents; he pleaded guilty and was fined $10 and costs, $12.60 in all. A little mathematical calculation will show that he was minus $11.90 on what he could have had the goods for. It must be agreed that the no-license men had a point in this case; if he had not been drinking he probably would not have taken the articles, at least not without paying.

A boy 13 years of age was charged with throwing stones at a lad on a bicycle on Spring street November 17. It seems that the boy on the wheel had his bicycle disturbed by some lads and jumped off and chased them, and when he started to ride away some one hit him back of the ear with a stone. There are no loose stones on Spring street, so he must have gone off the street to find the stone. He pleaded not guilty and had his case continued to next Friday.

Chief of Police Manchester was in from Tiverton two days running. Sunday he had two prisoners, who were fined $10 each and went to jail. This morning he had a man charged with assault, who was fined $20 and costs, and also did not pay.

The police have been directed to report stores which come under the state law in regar to the registration of ownership in business concerns not operating under the names of the proprietor's. This law has been in effect some time and a large number have registered. In Providence the police have begun the enforcement of the law, taking first those who have just come into the city and started business under some such name, and they have been fined. It happens that no such place has started business here but it seems likely that some places which should register have not done so.

We understand that the press is about to issue a special letter of thanks to Sir H. Beerbohm Tree, Sir John Hare, Miss Phyllis Dare, and other distinguished patrons of a recent murder trial, who by their presence helped to make the function such a brilliant affair.—[Punch.

DAMAGE BEYOND REPAIR.

Old-Fashioned House and Antique Contents of Priceless Value.

Fire in the Unoccupied Cottage of A. L. Green, on Training Station Road.

Fire late Sunday night and early this morning caused damage which money cannot make good, no matter what may have been the insurance carried. The residence of Arthur Leslie Green, a former member of the faculty at Cloyne School, was badly wrecked, but the greater damage was to the contents, practically all of which had special value, representing ages gone by. The fire had been burning a long while before discovered, and after the apparatus arrived it continued to do destruction for some time, since there was delay in putting on effective streams.

It was just five minutes before eight bells, according to the log of the Reina Mercedes—or 12 o'clock, midnight—when the quartermaster on watch in his house on the bridge of the ship decided that smoke which he had been observing in the vicinity of Training Station road was due to a house on fire. He at once communicated the fact to Boatswain Williams, the officer of the day, who came on deck, made an observation and telephoned fire department headquarters. The delay in securing "central" troubled him, and then after reaching headquarters the delay in hearing the alarm caused him to fear that he had called wrong, and so he telephoned the police station. When headquarters received the telephone message from the ship it at once called up Cloyne School and asked if there was a fire about there. The reply was that there was not, so far as known, but they would look. They did look and promptly called for assistance.

Chemical 1 rolled out of her station as the alarm from box 163, Third and Sycamore streets, was pulled and the other apparatus made time on the long run. At the Training Station the ship's guard turned out and crossed the causeway to render aid if possible, and word was sent ashore that the big engine at the Station was ready to respond if assistance was required. So far as was noted by those who came from the school and the firemen on their first arrival, the house was fully secured and not a window or door showed signs of having been tampered with, yet it is possible that in the desire to reach the fire some place which had been forced open had been overlooked.

The fire, according to the first arrivals, was seated in the northeast corner of the structure, basement, first and second floors. This morning by daylight a visit to the ruins shows that the original judgment was correct and that the fire must have been burning a long while before the men arrived. Yet, strange to say, not an hour before the alarm the Training Station car passed the house, and it was a time of night when men are constantly reporting back at the Station and it would seem as if smoke would have been observed before. Many of the windows were provided with old-fashioned wooden panel shutters, either inside or out, and in some cases both. The outside shutters were provided with holes, so that some light should have shown, to be observed even in the bright moonlight. The Cloyne School people were passing and re-passing until after 9 o'clock, up to which time all was well in the neighborhood.

The fire would seem to have started in the coal and wood room in the basement, and before the firemen could enter the house the floor above had burned through, and even before they were really at work the floor above that, in this particular corner was gone. There was a huge amount of wood stored, as is shown by the remains today. On the back porch are two bottles which had contained kerosene, but are practically empty. Whether these had anything to do with the fire is not positively known, though there is a common report at Cloyne that kerosene was smelt in the early stages of the fire.

The house is an old one—the Clarke Weaver building, from the corner of Second and Walnut streets. It has been extensively re-built by the addition of old bits, both without and within, and yet in a way still retained its slow-burning characteristics. Had it been of modern construction there would be little to repair today.

While the fire generally confined itself to the corner where it started and the front hall, there is a notable exception in that the flames passed through the hall, entered the dining room to the southwest, and charred door frames, a "grandfather's" clock and other furnishings. Throughout the house, except in some of the basement rooms, the heat was intense, and while flames did not actually damage the heat blistered, warped and otherwise disfigured so that the application of water only added to the damage.

At the Training Station the house is called the "curiosity shop," a title which has well fitted it. Starting with an old structure, the owner searched everywhere for bits of woodwork and furnishings, which he has repaired and put in position. There are four old Colonial doorways on the structure, taken from as many different houses; windows from various houses, and trimmings from all sorts of places some of the carving from the old Wanton building, now the Boston Store, being conspicuous. Within are mantlepieces, closets, paneling and doorways in great number, all of which have been stripped from old houses and adapted to the finishing of this structure. So it is with the furniture. In the music room are a strange old piano, an aeolean and a harp. There are spinning wheels, high-post bedsteads, old cradles, swell-front bureaus, strange-looking chairs and almost every conceivable kind of Colonial furniture, even the books, bric-a-brac and pictures have the mark of past generations.

There is of course a large amount of material in the house and its contents which can be repaired, yet aside from that which was actually burned there is much which has been ruined. In addition to the articles already enumerated there were closets and chests filled with a wealth of old dresses and laces. Mrs. Huntington, wife of Dr. O. W. Huntington, who was about the scene this morning, when asked if she had any idea what the collection was worth said she would not dare suggest a figure, and yet she is well acquainted with the place and has a liking for these relics of the past.

With such richness as the prey of the flames it seemed a pity to see the work of destruction go on while the firemen were endeavoring to put effective streams at work. The Chemical, arriving on the scene in good time, closely followed by the Twos and Fours, were soon out of material to fight with, and yet had emptied their tanks without making much impression on the fire. There was only one hydrant within reach, at the corner of Third street. From this the hose companies laid hose, and then it was deemed wise to attach a steamer, and by yoking lines four streams were secured. Steamer 2, after two or three years of idleness, first went into line, and promptly upon starting ruptured the suction, which meant shutting down and replacing by steamer 4. The draft on the supply of water at this point was considerable, and had more water been needed the offer of the Training Station would possibly have been accepted, as locating on the causeway a steamer could have supplied as many more effective salt water streams.

After the Chemical emptied its tanks it was driven to the Training Station, where at the Reina Mercedes dock hydrant it re-filled them at Uncle Sam's expense, as the water there is paid for by meter.

In spite of the distance and the late hour, quite a number plodded out to the scene, even though because of the moonlight, they could see no illumination.

The house has not been occupied since late in August, and at that time was securely locked and shuttered and has been in the care of Mr. R. C. Derby. The family are now residing on Long Island and Mr. Green is expected today, having been telegraphed. The property is in the name of Mrs. Green, and through the agency of Henry Bull, Jr., insurance was carried amounting to $6,000 on the house, $2,000 in the American of New Jersey and $4,000 in the Niagara of New York, with $2,000 on the furniture, in the American of New Jersey.

SALE OF EASTON'S POINT LAND.

There was an auction sale of real estate Saturday at the court house. It was a mortgagee's sale of 4.397 acres of land on Walcott and Tuckerman avenues, in the Easton's Point plat, and was on a mortgage given by Lawrence B. Pinckney of Boston to Paul Tuckerman. It looked like business when two residents from the financial section of Portsmouth, Senator H. C. Anthony and J. L. De Terra, appeared, but neither took part in the bidding. This was started by Mr. Keehne, counsel for the mortgagee, at $2,465. Mr. Levy followed with a bid of $2,685 and that was all the bidding there was, the lot being sold to Mr. Levy at his figures. He bought it for Thomas F. Keeher.
